Japan Leftists Denounce New Pact As Invalid

Tactical Drive Against Kishi's Party Mapped

TOKYO (AP) — The Socialist party and its leftwing allies began a coordinated campaign Friday to drive Japan's conservatives from office and discredit the new security treaty with the United States. They denounced the pact as invalid.

With Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi on the way out and leaders of his party struggling to choose a new chief, the leftists outlined a tactical plan ranging from political maneuvers to the familiar huge demonstrations.

Opening gun was a "people's funeral" in downtown Hibiya Park for Michiko Kamba, the Tokyo University coed trampled to death June 15 in the leftist student charge to the grounds of the Diet (parliament).

March On Diet Planned

Sponsors claimed more than 20,000 would turn out for the funeral, to be followed by a march on the Diet and police headquarters to denounce Kishi and his government as murderers of the girl, whom the leftists have made into a martyr.

Factory and shop rallies are scheduled Saturday, followed by a demonstration of 60,000 around the Diet at night. On July 2 the Socialists and their allies will try to bring out 300,000 backers, and again send them shouting toward the Diet demanding that the conservatives clear out and new elections be held soon.

Allied with the Socialists in the new campaign are the giant Sohyo labor federation and the "People's Council Against the New Security Pact." This group takes in diverse elements such as Communists, Soviet and Communist Chinese friendship societies, nuclear bomb opponents, teachers, actors, writers, and many others in a bid for support from a broader and more moderate segment of the population.

Kishi To Resign Shortly

Many of council's members, not all of them leftists, were active in the demonstrations that forced cancellation of President Eisenhower's visit.

The new security pact went into effect Wednesday. Kishi then announced that the major aim of his 3½-year-old government had been achieved and he would resign shortly to create "a fresh public atmosphere and a change in the political atmosphere."

Rail Firemen Accept Pattern Wage Increase

CHICAGO (UPI) — Locomotive firemen Thursday joined their co-workers on the nation's railroad trains in accepting a 4 per cent "pattern" wage increase.

General Chairmen of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen (BLFE) voted unanimously in a closed meeting to approve a settlement giving 45,000 firemen a two-step wage hike which the railroads said would average about 10.1 cents an hour.

Union and rail bargainers promptly met and signed the agreement.

Half of the boost will be received in firemen's paychecks July 1. The second half becomes effective next March 1.

The BLFE was the second big operating brotherhood to settle with the carriers in as many days and the fourth this month. The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, largest of the operating unions, agreed Wednesday to a similar two-step, 4 per cent wage increase for 107,000 trainmen.

Government arbitrators set the pattern on June 3 in a binding award to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. The Order of Railway Conductors settled on the same formula the following day.

Thursday's settlement left the Switchmen's Union, smallest of the five operating brotherhoods, the only on-train union outside the wage fold. It helped clear the tracks for preliminary negotiations opening July 6 on the controversial work rules issue.

Lumumba Wins Rival's Support, Forms Cabinet

LEOPOLDVILLE, Belgian Congo (AP)—Nationalist leader Patrice Lumumba announced Thursday night he has won the support of his major rival, Joseph Kasavubu, in forming the Congo's first independent government.

The announcement came in advance of a Parliament meeting called to endorse the Lumumba Cabinet.

With the backing of Kasavubu's powerful Abako group, which controls the entire Lower Congo area, Lumumba seemed assured of heading the regime taking over from Belgian colonial rule a week hence.

Lumumba notified Belgian Minister Ganshof Van der Meersch that he won Kasavubu's support after agreeing to include three Abako leaders in his Cabinet, including Pascal Nkayi as finance minister.

The government will be composed of 22 ministers and four secretaries of state.

The political situation has been confused for weeks with the inability of Lumumba and Kasavubu, the country's two strongest leaders, to reach agreement. Regional interests, a dispute over centralism versus federalism and bitter personal ambitions divide the two camps.

Lumumba, 34, president of the Congo National Movement, is a tall, slender man. He has been described as looking like a dark, bespectacled Davy Crockett when he wears his chieftain's headdress—a feathered sheepskin cap.

Educated in Belgian schools in the Congo, he completed high school and later studied law and literature through correspondence courses. He became a postal clerk and later was convicted of embezzlement.

Belgians fear and distrust him. They say he foments racial hatred. They call him an opportunist and allege he has accepted money from Belgian Communists.

Flooding Rains, Tornadic Winds Rip Middle West

By United Press International

A deadly summer tempest poured record-breaking rains on Louisville, Ky., Thursday in a surge of tornadic winds and lightning-riddled downpours from the Mississippi to the Appalachians.

At least nine deaths were blamed on storms which started Wednesday night and continued Thursday—four in Kentucky, two in Pennsylvania, two in Illinois, and one in Indiana.

At Louisville, the record downpour of five inches of rain in nine hours collapsed the concrete wall of an open air pit containing four lions at a private zoo. Three of the lions were shot immediately to prevent their escape. The fourth, a 450-pounder, roamed the country-side for eight hours before she could be killed.

Also in Kentucky, families in a flooded apartment house had to be taken out by boat, basements and viaducts were flooded, and 4,100 telephones went out of order.

Elsewhere along the midwest storm front:

—High waves trapped more than 70 fishermen, including women and children, on a breakwater a mile off the shore of Chicago's South Side. Waves battered the outpost and some children screamed in fright before a fireboat and tug sailed to the rescue.

—Tornadoes smashed farm country near Shumway and Virginia, Ill., and Danville, Ill., got 6.35 inches of rain. Civil defense workers helped evacuate families threatened by flood waters.

—Indiana was raked by one storm after another from Indianapolis to the Ohio River. Flash floods hit at least a half dozen villages.

Eisenhower Tour Report Set Monday

President Readies Attack On Demos' Criticism Of Trip

HONOLULU, (UPI) — President Eisenhower will report to the American people by radio and television Monday night on his Far Eastern tour, it was announced Thursday and is expected to attack Democratic criticism and Soviet propaganda that the trip was a flop.

The temporary White House at Kaneohe Marine air station announced plans for the report and charged that Democratic congressional critics of the tour were inconsistent and switched signals within the past 10 days.

Eisenhower was reported by Press Secretary James C. Hagerty to be "somewhat puzzled and somewhat amused by the fact that some of these gentlemen were saying only eight days ago that it would be a catastrophe if he did not visit Japan."

The President talked by telephone early Thursday with Vice President Richard M. Nixon about the report.

Although time and date of his departure from Hawaii have not been announced officially, sources close to the White House expected the President to end his Hawaiian holiday Saturday and return to Washington Sunday.

Hagerty said the President was informed of the resignation of Japanese Prime Minister Nobosuke Kishi but the White House had no comment. He said the White House had received no advance information that Kishi intended to resign.

In response to a question, Hagerty said Eisenhower had made "no arrangements" to see former Korean President Syngman Rhee, who came to Hawaii after his government was overthrown.

Fidel Threatens More Seizures

HAVANA (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro intimated Thursday that his government might eventually take over all American business interests in Cuba in the face of what he called economic aggression by the United States.

In a nationwide radio address, Castro referred to a number of American businesses which he said the revolution has permitted to continue functioning.

"In the same way that they are there now, it may be in the future that they will not be there," Castro said.

"We will not remain impassive," he added. "We will know how to handle economic aggression."

The Castro regime has already confiscated or expropriated about one third of an estimated U. S. investment of one billion dollars in Cuba.

Castro called threats to cut Cuba's sugar quota to the United States "a knife thrust in the chest." He also complained of what he called plots to leave Cuba without credit abroad and without fuel.

"By that road they will not succeed in destroying the revolution," Castro said.

Congressional Trip Expense Lid Ordered

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House committee in charge of expense accounts Thursday ordered a $25-a-day ceiling on the amount House members may claim for living expenses while on congressional trips.

New regulations on expense accounts were adopted by the House Administration Committee, which intends to put them in effect July 1.

The committee also decided that members must obtain approval in advance of a trip to seek any more than $12 a day allowance for such expenses as hotel rooms, meals, laundry and tips

Employes of the executive branch of the government are limited to a $12 per diem allowance.

Ike Approves Grant For Chilean Relief

House Passes Medical Care For Aged Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—With an eye to the old folks' vote, the House Thursday passed 380-23 a bill that would create a limited federal-state program of health-hospital care for elderly persons unable to pay heavy medical bills.

The lopsided vote—244 Democrats and 136 Republicans were for the bill, 16 Democrats and 7 Republicans against—was not considered an accurate reflection of sentiment for the skeleton program itself.

Rather, it indicated widespread belief that this bill could become the framework on which the Senate might build provisions of either of two much broader and rival plans—one backed by the Eisenhower administration, the other by many Democrats and organized labor.

The bill passed by the House was the only one on which the House Ways and Means Committee could agree after eight weeks. It came to the House on a take-it-or-leave-it basis.

The House took it, for to have done otherwise would have killed chances for any health care legislation this election year — and heavy mail reported by congressional offices earlier this session was taken to mean there was widespread voter concern.

As it is, the session is fast drawing to a close and there is some question whether enough time remains to shape a final bill that can clear Congress.

The health care plan forms only part of a package bill making changes in various Social Security programs.

As sent to the Senate, the proposal might benefit an estimated 500,000 to a million persons a year. The nation's over-65 population is believed to number about 16 million.

Under the bill's terms, each state could extend its public welfare program to cover a new classification—persons 65 or older who can meet their everyday expenses but are unable to handle heavy medical costs.

Each state would set its own rules for eligibility within over-all federal standards.

It would be up to the states to decide how much each would provide in annual benefits. The maximum would be 120 days of hospitalization, unlimited doctor services, $200 worth of drugs, and $200 in laboratory fees.

The federal government would ante up 50 to 65 per cent of the cost, depending on a state's financial resources.

Kennedy Sews Up 87 New York Votes

By The Associated Press

Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts Thursday made his longest stride yet toward the Democratic presidential nomination, clinching at least 87 of New York's 114 votes in the national convention.

The front-running Kennedy could also be encouraged by news from Wisconsin and New Jersey, where there was talk of giving him votes that had been headed elsewhere.

New Yorkers who'll represent their state at the Los Angeles Democratic convention next month met at Albany and pledged 87 votes to Kennedy. In addition, he was promised, but not definitely pledged, 4½ more.

Kennedy now has to his credit 484 of the 761 votes needed to nominate, on the basis of primary results, delegation pledges and preferences expressed by delegates in Associated Press polls.

While the pro-Kennedy developments dominated the Democratic side of the national political picture, there were two major developments among the Republicans.

1. President Eisenhower was reported planning to fire back at Democrats who have criticized his Far East trip, and the planning or lack of planning that went into it.

2. Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky, the Republican national chairman, announced he would accept his party's nomination for vice president if it came his way.

Morton has been mentioned many times for the No. 2 spot on the ticket to be headed by Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Another possible choice of the Republicans for vice president, Secretary of the Interior Fred A. Seaton, made a speech in Texas. One point he offered was that derogatory talk about the state of the nation's defenses is "political claptrap."

But Seaton also said Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas is "one of the greatest living Americans."

Johnson picked up 2½ votes in the New York delegation, raising his total in the unofficial tally to 202½. He ranks second to Kennedy.

The New Yorkers gave two votes to Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota and one vote each to former Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois and Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri.

Delegates accounting for the remainder of New York's 114 votes were absent or abstained from voting.

In New Jersey, the closest political adviser to Gov. Robert B. Meyner—Robert J. Burkhardt—said New Jersey's 41 convention votes should switch to Kennedy now.

The votes are pledged to Meyner on a favorite son basis, but Burkhardt said he doesn't think Kennedy can be overtaken by anyone.

In Wisconsin, a leading Humphrey supporter, Carl F. Lauri, said that if Humphrey's name is not put before the national convention, he and at least four other Wisconsin delegates will vote for Kennedy on the first ballot.

Wheat Surplus Curbs Rejected

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A rebellious House Thursday defeated rival Republican and Democratic plans for curbing wheat surpluses, apparently killing all chances for election-year legislation dealing with the nation's biggest farm headache.

The outcome was seen as a political setback for Democrats who will be seeking votes from farmers in the Midwest and Great Plains in the November election.

If the bill — or some compromise form of it — had cleared Congress, the President would have been forced to accept a Democratic-backed price boost for farmers or take responsibility for vetoing a bill designed to cut farm surpluses.

Chairman Harold D. Cooley (D—N.C.) of the House Agriculture Committee conceded glumly that "I can already hear the candidates saying that the Democrats controlled Congress and were unable to pass a bill."

Nationwide Draft-Adlai Movement Announced

WASHINGTON (AP)—A nationwide movement to draft Adlai E. Stevenson for the Democratic presidential nomination was announced Thursday.

The announcement came from James Doyle of Madison, Wis., 45, a lawyer who used to be the Democratic chairman in his state.

Stevenson, the nominee in 1952 and 1956, has held back from announcing for a third try but has made himself available.

Doyle, at a news conference in the office of Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney of Oklahoma, declared: "As England responded to Churchill, France to De Gaulle, so America is prepared today to respond to the leadership of Adlai Stevenson."

Doyle figured there are Stevenson organizations now in more than 40 states and he is undertaking the job of welding them into a national force.

He said he took on the job at the request of Monroney and these five other Stevenson supporters: Eleanor Roosevelt; former Secretary of the Air Force Thomas K. Finletter; Sen. John Carroll of Colorado; former Sen. Herbert H. Lehman of New York and Mrs. Eugene Meyer, widow of the publisher of the Washington Post.

Doyle, in discussing strategy, said he was convinced that neither Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts nor any other candidate would go into the convention at Los Angeles next month with a majority of the delegates.

He said that while Stevenson cannot expect massive support on the early ballots, he'll eventually come through as the winner.

Israel Action In Eichmann Case Illegal

But Mild Resolution Makes No Demand For Return Of Nazi

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The U. N. Security Council decided Thursday Israel acted illegally in gaining custody of Adolf Eichmann. But the council sidestepped any direct call for his return to Argentina.

By a vote of 8 to 0 with 2 abstentions, the 11-nation council approved a mildly worded Argentine resolution aimed at soothing that country's feelings over the secret transfer of Eichmann to Israel to face war crimes charges.

Poland and the Soviet Union abstained. Argentina obtained permission not to vote since it was one of the parties involved in the dispute. Israel is not a member of the council.

The resolution called on Israel to make adequate reparations for violating Argentine sovereignty.

But Mario Amadeo, the Argentine delegate, refused to say flatly if he meant by this the return of Eichmann to Argentina.

The United States and Britain made clear they did not see any mandate for Israel to return Eichmann, as had been demanded by Amadeo in a speech to the council Wednesday.

Now Up To Disputants

Both Israel and the Soviet Union challenged Amadeo to clarify his country's position on this point.

Amadeo replied that once the resolution was adopted, it was up to Israel and Argentina to examine it and take the necessary measures for its implementation.

Most delegates took the view that the council had disposed of the Israeli-Argentine dispute, and it was now up to these two nations to settle any remaining differences in private consultations.

As one leading Western diplomat summed it up: "Argentina got approval of her resolution and Israel gets to keep Eichmann."

Israel readily admitted during the two-day debate that Argentine law was violated when Eichmann was seized in Buenos Aires last month and taken to Israel to face charges of being a top Nazi who played a leading role in the killing of six million Jews during World War II.

Before the vote, Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge made clear the United States believes the resolution contained no call upon Israel to return Eichmann to Argentina.

Lodge Regards Case As Closed

Lodge said the United States considers that adequate reparation will have been made by the expression of views in the council and the apology given by Israeli Foreign Minister Golda Meir for violating Argentine law.

"We therefore think," Lodge said, "that when we have adopted the pending resolution 'adequate reparation' will have been made and that the incident will then be closed.

"The normal and friendly relations between the two governments can then progress."

Diplomatic sources said Lodge consulted with the Argentine delegation before making the statement.

Israeli sources said they regarded the statement as most satisfactory from their point of view.

Argentina brought the complaint before the council last week. It alleged that the transfer of Eichmann to Israel violated Argentine sovereignty, and declared he should be returned within a week.

Stevenson Calls For Foreign Policy Debate

WAUKEGAN, Ill. (UPI) —Adlai E. Stevenson Thursday night accused Republicans of "cheap charges of appeasement" and called for wide open debate on United States foreign policy in the presidential campaign.

The two-time Democratic presidential nominee, still considered a dark horse bet for a third candidacy, called on both parties to quit debating which side Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev wants to win in November.

"Khrushchev's aim is American weakness and disunity," Stevenson said. "So I suggest that both presidential candidates this year pledge themselves in advance of the campaign to keep Mr. Khrushchev out of the national debate."

Stevenson, who had drawn heavy Republican fire for his attack on administration handling of the U-2 incident, unleashed a new attack on President Eisenhower's foreign policies in a speech before the Illinois State Bar Association convention.

"In the same way that they are there now, it may be in the future that they will not be there," Castro said.

"We will not remain impassive," he added. "We will know how to handle economic aggression."

The Castro regime has already confiscated or expropriated about one third of an estimated U. S. investment of one billion dollars in Cuba.

Castro called threats to cut Cuba's sugar quota to the United States "a knife thrust in the chest." He also complained of what he called plots to leave Cuba without credit abroad and without fuel.

"By that road they will not succeed in destroying the revolution," Castro said.

Congressional Trip Expense Lid Ordered

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House committee in charge of expense accounts Thursday ordered a $25-a-day ceiling on the amount House members may claim for living expenses while on congressional trips.

New regulations on expense accounts were adopted by the House Administration Committee, which intends to put them in effect July 1.

The committee also decided that members must obtain approval in advance of a trip to seek any more than $12 a day allowance for such expenses as hotel rooms, meals, laundry and tips

Employes of the executive branch of the government are limited to a $12 per diem allowance.

The President, resting here after his tour of the Far East, also approved the lending for five years of 10 United States ships, all landing craft, to Chile.

House Passes Medical Care For Aged Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—With an eye to the old folks' vote, the House Thursday passed 380-23 a bill that would create a limited federal-state program of health-hospital care for elderly persons unable to pay heavy medical bills.

The lopsided vote—244 Democrats and 136 Republicans were for the bill, 16 Democrats and 7 Republicans against—was not considered an accurate reflection of sentiment for the skeleton program itself.

Rather, it indicated widespread belief that this bill could become the framework on which the Senate might build provisions of either of two much broader and rival plans—one backed by the Eisenhower administration, the other by many Democrats and organized labor.

The bill passed by the House was the only one on which the House Ways and Means Committee could agree after eight weeks. It came to the House on a take-it-or-leave-it basis.

The House took it, for to have done otherwise would have killed chances for any health care legislation this election year — and heavy mail reported by congressional offices earlier this session was taken to mean there was widespread voter concern.

As it is, the session is fast drawing to a close and there is some question whether enough time remains to shape a final bill that can clear Congress.

The health care plan forms only part of a package bill making changes in various Social Security programs.

As sent to the Senate, the proposal might benefit an estimated 500,000 to a million persons a year. The nation's over-65 population is believed to number about 16 million.

Under the bill's terms, each state could extend its public welfare program to cover a new classification—persons 65 or older who can meet their everyday expenses but are unable to handle heavy medical costs.

Each state would set its own rules for eligibility within over-all federal standards.

It would be up to the states to decide how much each would provide in annual benefits. The maximum would be 120 days of hospitalization, unlimited doctor services, $200 worth of drugs, and $200 in laboratory fees.

The federal government would ante up 50 to 65 per cent of the cost, depending on a state's financial resources.

Kennedy Sews Up 87 New York Votes

By The Associated Press

Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts Thursday made his longest stride yet toward the Democratic presidential nomination, clinching at least 87 of New York's 114 votes in the national convention.

The front-running Kennedy could also be encouraged by news from Wisconsin and New Jersey, where there was talk of giving him votes that had been headed elsewhere.

New Yorkers who'll represent their state at the Los Angeles Democratic convention next month met at Albany and pledged 87 votes to Kennedy. In addition, he was promised, but not definitely pledged, 4½ more.

Kennedy now has to his credit 484 of the 761 votes needed to nominate, on the basis of primary results, delegation pledges and preferences expressed by delegates in Associated Press polls.

While the pro-Kennedy developments dominated the Democratic side of the national political picture, there were two major developments among the Republicans.

1. President Eisenhower was reported planning to fire back at Democrats who have criticized his Far East trip, and the planning or lack of planning that went into it.

2. Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky, the Republican national chairman, announced he would accept his party's nomination for vice president if it came his way.

Morton has been mentioned many times for the No. 2 spot on the ticket to be headed by Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Another possible choice of the Republicans for vice president, Secretary of the Interior Fred A. Seaton, made a speech in Texas. One point he offered was that derogatory talk about the state of the nation's defenses is "political claptrap."

But Seaton also said Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas is "one of the greatest living Americans."

Johnson picked up 2½ votes in the New York delegation, raising his total in the unofficial tally to 202½. He ranks second to Kennedy.

The New Yorkers gave two votes to Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota and one vote each to former Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois and Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri.

Delegates accounting for the remainder of New York's 114 votes were absent or abstained from voting.

In New Jersey, the closest political adviser to Gov. Robert B. Meyner—Robert J. Burkhardt—said New Jersey's 41 convention votes should switch to Kennedy now.

The votes are pledged to Meyner on a favorite son basis, but Burkhardt said he doesn't think Kennedy can be overtaken by anyone.

In Wisconsin, a leading Humphrey supporter, Carl F. Lauri, said that if Humphrey's name is not put before the national convention, he and at least four other Wisconsin delegates will vote for Kennedy on the first ballot.

Wheat Surplus Curbs Rejected

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A rebellious House Thursday defeated rival Republican and Democratic plans for curbing wheat surpluses, apparently killing all chances for election-year legislation dealing with the nation's biggest farm headache.

The outcome was seen as a political setback for Democrats who will be seeking votes from farmers in the Midwest and Great Plains in the November election.

If the bill — or some compromise form of it — had cleared Congress, the President would have been forced to accept a Democratic-backed price boost for farmers or take responsibility for vetoing a bill designed to cut farm surpluses.

Chairman Harold D. Cooley (D—N.C.) of the House Agriculture Committee conceded glumly that "I can already hear the candidates saying that the Democrats controlled Congress and were unable to pass a bill."

Nationwide Draft-Adlai Movement Announced

WASHINGTON (AP)—A nationwide movement to draft Adlai E. Stevenson for the Democratic presidential nomination was announced Thursday.

The announcement came from James Doyle of Madison, Wis., 45, a lawyer who used to be the Democratic chairman in his state.

Stevenson, the nominee in 1952 and 1956, has held back from announcing for a third try but has made himself available.

Doyle, at a news conference in the office of Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney of Oklahoma, declared: "As England responded to Churchill, France to De Gaulle, so America is prepared today to respond to the leadership of Adlai Stevenson."

Doyle figured there are Stevenson organizations now in more than 40 states and he is undertaking the job of welding them into a national force.

He said he took on the job at the request of Monroney and these five other Stevenson supporters: Eleanor Roosevelt; former Secretary of the Air Force Thomas K. Finletter; Sen. John Carroll of Colorado; former Sen. Herbert H. Lehman of New York and Mrs. Eugene Meyer, widow of the publisher of the Washington Post.

Doyle, in discussing strategy, said he was convinced that neither Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts nor any other candidate would go into the convention at Los Angeles next month with a majority of the delegates.

He said that while Stevenson cannot expect massive support on the early ballots, he'll eventually come through as the winner.

Israel Action In Eichmann Case Illegal

But Mild Resolution Makes No Demand For Return Of Nazi

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The U. N. Security Council decided Thursday Israel acted illegally in gaining custody of Adolf Eichmann. But the council sidestepped any direct call for his return to Argentina.

By a vote of 8 to 0 with 2 abstentions, the 11-nation council approved a mildly worded Argentine resolution aimed at soothing that country's feelings over the secret transfer of Eichmann to Israel to face war crimes charges.

Poland and the Soviet Union abstained. Argentina obtained permission not to vote since it was one of the parties involved in the dispute. Israel is not a member of the council.

The resolution called on Israel to make adequate reparations for violating Argentine sovereignty.

But Mario Amadeo, the Argentine delegate, refused to say flatly if he meant by this the return of Eichmann to Argentina.

The United States and Britain made clear they did not see any mandate for Israel to return Eichmann, as had been demanded by Amadeo in a speech to the council Wednesday.

Now Up To Disputants

Both Israel and the Soviet Union challenged Amadeo to clarify his country's position on this point.

Amadeo replied that once the resolution was adopted, it was up to Israel and Argentina to examine it and take the necessary measures for its implementation.

Most delegates took the view that the council had disposed of the Israeli-Argentine dispute, and it was now up to these two nations to settle any remaining differences in private consultations.

As one leading Western diplomat summed it up: "Argentina got approval of her resolution and Israel gets to keep Eichmann."

Israel readily admitted during the two-day debate that Argentine law was violated when Eichmann was seized in Buenos Aires last month and taken to Israel to face charges of being a top Nazi who played a leading role in the killing of six million Jews during World War II.

Before the vote, Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge made clear the United States believes the resolution contained no call upon Israel to return Eichmann to Argentina.

Lodge Regards Case As Closed

Lodge said the United States considers that adequate reparation will have been made by the expression of views in the council and the apology given by Israeli Foreign Minister Golda Meir for violating Argentine law.

"We therefore think," Lodge said, "that when we have adopted the pending resolution 'adequate reparation' will have been made and that the incident will then be closed.

"The normal and friendly relations between the two governments can then progress."

Diplomatic sources said Lodge consulted with the Argentine delegation before making the statement.

Israeli sources said they regarded the statement as most satisfactory from their point of view.

Argentina brought the complaint before the council last week. It alleged that the transfer of Eichmann to Israel violated Argentine sovereignty, and declared he should be returned within a week.

Stevenson Calls For Foreign Policy Debate

WAUKEGAN, Ill. (UPI) —Adlai E. Stevenson Thursday night accused Republicans of "cheap charges of appeasement" and called for wide open debate on United States foreign policy in the presidential campaign.

The two-time Democratic presidential nominee, still considered a dark horse bet for a third candidacy, called on both parties to quit debating which side Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev wants to win in November.

"Khrushchev's aim is American weakness and disunity," Stevenson said. "So I suggest that both presidential candidates this year pledge themselves in advance of the campaign to keep Mr. Khrushchev out of the national debate."

Stevenson, who had drawn heavy Republican fire for his attack on administration handling of the U-2 incident, unleashed a new attack on President Eisenhower's foreign policies in a speech before the Illinois State Bar Association convention.

Hagerstown To Get Mack Truck Plant

PLAINFIELD, N.J. (AP)—Mack Trucks Inc. said Thursday it had chosen Hagerstown, Md., as the site for a new factory to replace its plant here.

A company spokesman said construction should be completed by October 1961 with an initial employment of 2,000 persons.

The company had announced last October that it intended to close the Plainfield plant which employs 3,200 persons.

City officials had sought to persuade Mack to keep its plant here open. The weekly payroll of Plainfield employes is about $300,000. Mack also pays about $240,000 a year in local taxes.

In announcing it would move last fall, Mack said labor conditions and lack of room for expansion were a principal cause.

No announcement was made as to where the firm's head offices, located here, would be moved. Mack plants in Allentown, Pa., and Somerville are not affected nor is the Brockway Motor Truck Div. in Cortland, N.Y.

Mack said many of the workers here would have an opportunity to switch to the Hagerstown operation. For those who don't, the company said it would provide separation pay and early retirement benefits "that are among the most favorable ever offered by a company in a similar relocation situation.

"The company will assist employes not eligible for early retirement to find other jobs in the Plainfield area."

The new plant in Maryland will contain about a million square feet of floor space the company said.

Originally Mack had planned to relocate both the Plainfield and Allentown plants in one new factory. Plainfield makes truck engines, transmissions and differentials, and Allentown assembles the vehicles.

However, it was decided to keep the Allentown plant open after an agreement with the union there, Local 677 United Auto Workers.

Wide-Ranging Thief On Top Fugitive List

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The FBI put Richard Peter Wagner on its 10-most-wanted list Thursday, listing his chief interests as burglary, the shotgun, the trombone and women.

Burglary heads the list for a reason. The 42-year-old desperado has boasted of committing this offense 35 times in a four-month period, hitting 15 states.

He rates women rather high too, having been married and divorced several times.

His favorite weapon is the shotgun, the FBI reported, but he also has been found armed with rifles and pistols. He is to be considered extremely dangerous.

Wagner, whose birthday was Saturday, has spent most of his adult life behind bars.

He was in the federal institution at Sandstone, Minn., until he escaped recently and became eligible for the roll of top criminals.

According to the FBI, the fugitive has "displayed an utter disregard for lawful authority" and scorn for parole. He also is described as "a confirmed thief who is said to be incapable of telling the truth."

In burglary, he favors well-to-do homes where he concentrates on such easy-to-carry loot as mink coats, precious jewelry and expensive luggage. One of his victims was a Hollywood actor. He often stays at high-class hotels.

Wagner frequently is on the move. In claiming his crime spree of 35 burglaries from October, 1946, through January, 1947, he said he had operated in Oklahoma, Iowa, New York, North Dakota, Wisconsin, Tennessee, Florida, Georgia, Virginia, Delaware, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Missouri and Illinois.

He stands 6 feet 1½ inches to 6 feet 2½ inches and may weigh between 210 and 230 pounds. He has dark brown hair which is graying, brown eyes and a medium dark complexion.

The word "Marguerite" or "Marguerita" is tattooed on his upper left arm. He has been known to grow a mustache.

Perfumes Scent Air When Truck Hits Low Bridge

OAKVALE, W. Va. (AP)—Perfumes and cosmetics scented nature's countryside Thursday when a 12-foot high tractor-trailer tried to squeeze under a 10-foot underpass.

Driver Earl Lowery of Hagerstown, Md., said he failed to see the warning sign before his big truck smacked into the underpass on West Virginia 12 near this town in Mercer County. The truck was "peeled from front to back," said State Trooper R.L. Mozingo.

The trooper said damage was about $3,500 to the truck, $1,000 to the sweet smelling cargo and only $75 to the bridge.

Leaders in the fields of city planning and historic preservation will be among the speakers and conferees.

Lunch Counter Desegregation Spreads In Va.

By United Press International

Virginia's first lunch counter desegregation spread Thursday in Arlington County, a metropolitan suburb within sight of the nation's capital across the Potomac. But it appeared to be stopping there.

The F. W. Woolworth Co., first firm to announce it would serve whites and Negroes on an equal basis in its Arlington store, said it had no plans to desegregate lunch counters in its other Virginia stores.

In Fairfax County, Va., which adjoins Arlington and is also within the Washington metropolitan area, commonwealth's Attorney Robert C. Fitzgerald said he would ask state Attorney General Albertis Harrison for advice. Fitzgerald first ordered the arrest of any merchant who desegregated a lunch counter in Fairfax, but then rescinded that order.

Fitzgerald said he was not sure the order could be enforced under Virginia's segregated seating laws because of a new anti-trespass statute enacted by the 1960 Legislature.

At least eight Arlington stores had agreed to desegregate lunch counters. Three large stores, Hecht's, McCrory's and Murphy's, joined the desegregation move Thursday.

A large Atlanta, Ga., department store, Rich's, closed its lunch counters at noon Thursday following requests for service at white-only facilities by two Negro students.

The Atlanta incident, preceded by sit-in demonstrations by Negro students in Charlotte, N.C., Wednesday appeared to mark a revival of a drive to desegregate lunch counters in the south by the passive sit-in demonstration method.

In Savannah, Ga. Superior Court Judge Edwin A. McWhorter refused to sanction an appeal by two Negroes convicted of violating that city's new anti-picketing ordinance. The ordinance was adopted after a series of demonstrations and picketing by Negroes to protest segregation.

Ben-Gurion Greeted

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands (AP)—A thousand Jews assembled in the 300-year-old Portuguese-Jewish synagogue Thursday to greet visiting Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion of Israel. Included among the thousand were some of the 700 surviny members of the Portuguese-Jewish community here. Before the days of the Nazis it numbered 5,000.

Reward Offered In W.Va. Robbery

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (UPI) — The Maryland Casualty Co., Baltimore, Md. announced Thursday that up to $35,000 could be gained by anyone providing information leading to conviction of those responsible for the $500,000 robbery at the State Motor Vehicles Department.

The insurance company, said a direct payment of $5,000 would be paid, plus 10 per cent of any of the missing money recovered. The state had insured up to $300,000 contents of the departments vault.

Meanwhile, investigators disclosed Thursday lie detector tests are being given certain employes of the department. Twelve employes were eliminated as suspects following such tests on Wednesday.

State Police Lt. E.L. Roush also announced that a sledge-hammer and pick found at the scene of the crime had been found to be the type used by railroad section crews.

Appeal Hearing Delay Granted

FAIRFAX, Va. (AP)—A two-week postponement was granted Thursday in a hearing on the appeal of a man who was committed to a mental hospital in connection with a telepathist's investigation of the slayings of the Carroll V. Jackson family.

The postponement was requested by Commonwealth Atty. Robert C. Fitzgerald. It was granted by Judge Paul E. Brown of Fairfax County Circuit Court.

The new hearing date is July 12. The man is to be returned here July 8 to permit an examination by a psychiatrist retained by the man's family.

The man, who has not been publicly identified, is in Southwestern State Hospital at Marion.

He was committed by a county lunacy commission after the telepathist, Peter Herkos, visited the places where the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Jackson and their two daughters were found. Herkos also gave police a description of the person he said he believed had committed the crime. No one has been charged in connection with the slayings.

The man's wife signed the commitment petition. Her attorney, Wayne Comer, said later that she was confused and weary from questioning at the time.

Salesman Arrested In Plane Bomb Scare

WASHINGTON (AP)—The FBI Thursday announced the arrest of a traveling salesman at Erie, Pa., on charges of starting a false airliner bomb scare.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said the salesman is the 22nd person to be so charged since the Justice Department started a crackdown on this type of offense in early April.

The FBI identified the man arrested at Erie as Ward Deerschuck, 35, of Garden City N.Y., traveling representative of a wholesale lumber company, with headquarters in New York City.

The FBI said Doerschuck arrived in Erie Thursday morning from Cleveland, Ohio and made reservations on Lake Central Airlines flight 385 scheduled to leave Erie at 1:23 p.m. for Buffalo, N.Y.

The salesman is alleged to have commented while checking his baggage:

"I wanted to get rid of this bomb anyway."

Woman Gets Life In Slaying Of Son

EBENSBURG, Pa. (UPI) — A Cambria County Court jury Thursday found Mrs. Eleanor Avis Conklin guilty of first degree murder in the slaying of her three-year-old son and sentenced her to life imprisonment.

Mrs. Conklin, 24, of Akron, Ohio, was charged with suffocating her son, Gary, with a towel in a Cresson motel in August, 1958.

The jury of six men and six women brought in the first degree murder verdict just before 3 p.m. after almost three hours of deliberation. After hearing additional testimony, the jury retired to fix the penalty as required under Pennsylvania's "split verdict" law, and returned with the life sentence less than an hour later.

Kennedy's W. Va. Margin Over Humphrey 84,323

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—The official margin by which Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) defeated Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn) in their Democratic presidential preference test in the May 10 West Virginia primary election was 84,323 votes.

Harold E. Neely won the Republican nomination for governor by a margin of 19,590 over Chapman Revercomb. Atty. Gen. W. W. Barron's edge over the closer of two rivals for the Democratic nomination for governor was 47,422.

Compilation of official results of the voting was completed Thursday by the office of Secretary of State Joe F. Burdett. Burdett said certificates of election are being issued first to delegates-at-large to the parties' national conventions next month and to their appointed alternates.

Burdett's office then will issue certificates to district delegates and to victors in primary contests for statewide office, in that order.

Kennedy won the presidential preference voting with a total of 236,510 to Humphrey's 152,187.

In their unopposed runs for their respective parties' nominations for the U.S. Senate, Sen. Jennings Randolph polled 275,064 on the Democratic ticket and Gov. Underwood got 160,106 votes for the GOP nomination.

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (UPI) — The Maryland Casualty Co., Baltimore, Md. announced Thursday that up to $35,000 could be gained by anyone providing information leading to conviction of those responsible for the $500,000 robbery at the State Motor Vehicles Department.

The insurance company, said a direct payment of $5,000 would be paid, plus 10 per cent of any of the missing money recovered. The state had insured up to $300,000 contents of the departments vault.

Meanwhile, investigators disclosed Thursday lie detector tests are being given certain employes of the department. Twelve employes were eliminated as suspects following such tests on Wednesday.

State Police Lt. E.L. Roush also announced that a sledge-hammer and pick found at the scene of the crime had been found to be the type used by railroad section crews.

Appeal Hearing Delay Granted

FAIRFAX, Va. (AP)—A two-week postponement was granted Thursday in a hearing on the appeal of a man who was committed to a mental hospital in connection with a telepathist's investigation of the slayings of the Carroll V. Jackson family.

The postponement was requested by Commonwealth Atty. Robert C. Fitzgerald. It was granted by Judge Paul E. Brown of Fairfax County Circuit Court.

The new hearing date is July 12. The man is to be returned here July 8 to permit an examination by a psychiatrist retained by the man's family.

The man, who has not been publicly identified, is in Southwestern State Hospital at Marion.

He was committed by a county lunacy commission after the telepathist, Peter Herkos, visited the places where the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Jackson and their two daughters were found. Herkos also gave police a description of the person he said he believed had committed the crime. No one has been charged in connection with the slayings.

The man's wife signed the commitment petition. Her attorney, Wayne Comer, said later that she was confused and weary from questioning at the time.

Salesman Arrested In Plane Bomb Scare

WASHINGTON (AP)—The FBI Thursday announced the arrest of a traveling salesman at Erie, Pa., on charges of starting a false airliner bomb scare.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said the salesman is the 22nd person to be so charged since the Justice Department started a crackdown on this type of offense in early April.

The FBI identified the man arrested at Erie as Ward Deerschuck, 35, of Garden City N.Y., traveling representative of a wholesale lumber company, with headquarters in New York City.

The FBI said Doerschuck arrived in Erie Thursday morning from Cleveland, Ohio and made reservations on Lake Central Airlines flight 385 scheduled to leave Erie at 1:23 p.m. for Buffalo, N.Y.

The salesman is alleged to have commented while checking his baggage:

"I wanted to get rid of this bomb anyway."

Woman Gets Life In Slaying Of Son

EBENSBURG, Pa. (UPI) — A Cambria County Court jury Thursday found Mrs. Eleanor Avis Conklin guilty of first degree murder in the slaying of her three-year-old son and sentenced her to life imprisonment.

Mrs. Conklin, 24, of Akron, Ohio, was charged with suffocating her son, Gary, with a towel in a Cresson motel in August, 1958.

The jury of six men and six women brought in the first degree murder verdict just before 3 p.m. after almost three hours of deliberation. After hearing additional testimony, the jury retired to fix the penalty as required under Pennsylvania's "split verdict" law, and returned with the life sentence less than an hour later.

Ben-Gurion Greeted

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands (AP)—A thousand Jews assembled in the 300-year-old Portuguese-Jewish synagogue Thursday to greet visiting Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion of Israel. Included among the thousand were some of the 700 surviny members of the Portuguese-Jewish community here. Before the days of the Nazis it numbered 5,000.

Kennedy's W. Va. Margin Over Humphrey 84,323

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—The official margin by which Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) defeated Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn) in their Democratic presidential preference test in the May 10 West Virginia primary election was 84,323 votes.

Harold E. Neely won the Republican nomination for governor by a margin of 19,590 over Chapman Revercomb. Atty. Gen. W. W. Barron's edge over the closer of two rivals for the Democratic nomination for governor was 47,422.

Compilation of official results of the voting was completed Thursday by the office of Secretary of State Joe F. Burdett. Burdett said certificates of election are being issued first to delegates-at-large to the parties' national conventions next month and to their appointed alternates.

Burdett's office then will issue certificates to district delegates and to victors in primary contests for statewide office, in that order.

Kennedy won the presidential preference voting with a total of 236,510 to Humphrey's 152,187.

In their unopposed runs for their respective parties' nominations for the U.S. Senate, Sen. Jennings Randolph polled 275,064 on the Democratic ticket and Gov. Underwood got 160,106 votes for the GOP nomination.

NEW YORK (AP)—A partner in one of Wall Street's biggest investment firms said Wednesday that the base and background for a broad bull market doesn't seem to exist.

The outlook, according to G. M. Loeb of E. F. Hutton & Co., is for a more highly selective market than ever before with more stocks marking time or losing ground than making headway.

He called the fact that 57 stocks made new highs and 44 new lows Tuesday a classic illustration of a so-called two-sided market.

"However," Loeb said, "if we look further, the 20 most active and strongest stocks of last week include issues like Standard Kollsman Industries, Universal Match, Nafi, Lear, Collins Radio and Transitron. Thus, the currently strongest and most popular issues were basically speculative in nature.

"If we look back fruther and see what happened during the year to date, we find that in addition to the speculative favorites, there has been great strength in defensive issues of the type of General Foods or American Home Products.

"Furthermore, the cross-currents have been almost unprecedented. Electronics, office equipment, foods, drugs, soft drinks and specialties were up; cyclical issues—oils, steels, papers, motors and aircrafts—were down.

"From a time standpoint there has been much less uniformity than suggested by the Dow Jones averages."

Thus, Loeb observed, much of the impetus comes from "stock fashions and not stock fundamentals."

He said growth stocks at a fashionable price are speculations, not investments, and that defensive issues at excessive cost lose their defensive nature.

Really Home Sweet Home

MERIDEN, Conn. (UPI) — It's really "home sweet home" at the home of Mrs. Antoinette Snow.

During the past nine years, a swarm of bees had been making their home in her attic.

The bees didn't bother Mrs. Snow and she didn't bother them.

Last fall, she had a new roof installed and the bees were driven out. But they left 150 pounds of honey comb covering the bare floor boards of the attic.

With the recent warm weather, the thick liquid loosened.

Mrs. Snow complained today that the honey is dripping into the living room.

"I wash and wash," she said, "but the honey just won't come out."

The aircraft, under construction by Britain's Vickers firm, will be capable of carrying 212 economy class passengers—62 more than on standard airliners. The Super VC-10, whose Rolls-Royce Conway engines are mounted well aft, is expected to have a cruising speed of nearly 575 miles per hour. (AP Photofax)

Wedding Bells Soon

BITBURG, Germany (UPI) — Mrs. Patricia Vanderbilt said Wednesday "it will still probably be a couple of weeks" before her daughter, Nanette Wallace, and Army specialist Wiley Lockamy are married. The couple eloped from the Riviera last month. Nanette, 19, and Lockamy, 23, plan to be married in a simple ceremony at an Air Force chapel here.

Four Navy Officers Punished For Whisky Smuggling

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — The Navy said Wednesday it has punished four officers who flew nearly 1,000 bottles of duty - free liquors and rum from Cuba in unmarked cases aboard a Navy transport plane last February.

The incident touched off an investigation by customs officials and the Navy into whisky - smuggling aboard military planes flying from Cuba to the United States.

Customs officials said bills would be mailed to those naval and military personnel involved for collection of several hundred thousand dollars in unpaid import duties.

The Navy said letters or reprimand were sent to the four officers involved in the Feb. 10 incident and noted that "a letter of reprimand is the next most serious punishment to a general court martial" that can be meted out to a naval officer.

The liquor was packed in crates bearing U.S. Navy markings and normally used for hauling airplane engines.

Investigation disclosed "at least a thousand" Navy officers had been buying liquor at the Navy base at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, and bringing it into this country aboard military planes. Officials said there was no organized plot but that the practice had been going on for some time.

7 Ways to Cut Your Medical Costs

The price of medical care is at an all-time high, and rising. For timely tips on how to handle doctors' fees . . . what an annual check-up should cost . . . what income tax deductions should be taken . . . and four other ways to make important savings. Jr. Civic Club Selects Projects

Two camperships and a donation were voted at the luncheon meeting of the Junior Woman's Civic Club, held at the Cumberland Country Club. One was for Friends Aware camp and the other, Girl Scout camp. The donation was made to the cancer fund.

Mrs. Ralph Sell presided. Mrs. Ralph Isiminger, president of the senior club, conducted the installation of officers. They are Mrs. K. O. Nelson, president; Mrs. Woodrow Gurley, vice president; Mrs. Leslie Clark, recording secretary; Mrs. Edwin Everhart, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Richard Dailey, treasurer.

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Americans should build bridges of friendship between themselves and foreign visitors through hospitality and understanding, a speaker told the Rural Women's Short Course Thursday.

John R. Eldridge, program officer of the Governmental Affairs Institute, pointed out that many tourists arrive in Washington first. With so many of them there, they are apt to find it a cold place to get acquainted with native Americans, said Eldridge.

Then, visitors are apt to go to other cities without having the opportunity to get acquainted with people in their homes. A friendly invitation to them would help overcome that gap, Eldridge told his audience.

Eldridge spoke during Thursday's program centered on international relations.

Another speaker, Mrs. Homer Remsberg of Middletown, stressed "Roads to Understanding."

Eldridge said friendliness toward foreigners will help to overcome misconceptions many of them have about people in this country.

Foreigners expect us all to be wealthy, Eldridge, said. They are amazed to find women have so much say in running things in the home and in government and business.

What astounds them most are our kitchens with a wealth of gadgets which women run themselves instead of having servants to do so.

Mrs. Remsberg, wife of a prominent Maryland dairy breeder, compared understanding of people in other nations with the experience of observing traffic signs along a road.

These things call for understanding, caution, flexibility, said Mrs. Remsberg.

A total of 1,021 women are registered for the week of study and relaxation in this annual "college" course for women at the University of Maryland campus.

Friday is graduation day, when 88 of them will receive certificates denoting that they have attended four consecutive years or more.

Anne Arundel County has the largest delegation of 94 attending. Baltimore City is next with 89 and Allegany County third with 86.

Ethel Ritchie Installed Head Of Auxiliary 136

Installation of officers and announcement of the homecoming celebration and family picnic featured the meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary of Post 136, American Legion, held Tuesday evening at the home. The homecoming celebration is to be July 21 and the picnic July 9.

Mrs. Lottie Campbell, Piedmont, past district president, was installing officer. She organized the Ridgeley auxiliary June 25, 1948, and for the past 10 years has officiated at the installation of officers. The auxiliary presented her with a gift of a purse, earrings and a necklace.

In celebration of her birthday a corsage was presented to Mrs. Laura Hughes.

Mrs. Ethel Ritchie was installed as president for the third term. Other officers inducted were Mrs. Esta Bowers, first vice president; Mrs. Lillian Duer, second vice president; Mrs. Elsie Leighty, secretary; Miss Lillie Leighty, treasurer; Mrs. Agnes McCullough, chaplain; Mrs. Ruth Tabler, historian, and Mrs. Gertrude McCullough, sergeant at arms.

The new officers will assume their duties at a meeting July 7, at which time committees for the year will be appointed, projects selected and plans formulated for the caravan to Moorefield in September.

Concluding the evening a social hour was held jointly with the Legion, and refreshments were served.

Activities Announced

Progress on the kitchen remodeling, note paper for sale and dates for the School of Missions were announced at the meeting of the Cresaptown WSCS, held at the home of Mrs. Lester McGill. They were given by Mrs. Fred Willison, Mrs. Edward Lewis and Mrs. Edgar Hounshell. The school is to be held at Western Maryland College July 10-15. Routine reports were given by Mrs. Ellsworth Lewis and Mrs. Thomas Beachy.

On behalf of the society Mrs. Arlie Borror presented a gift to Rev. and Mrs. Robert Bavender, welcoming them back to the church. Miss Evelyn May presented a life membership pin to Mrs. Borror, retiring president, in appreciation of her service.

The service, "Set Aside for Me," was led by Rev. Bavender, who offered prayer. Others taking part were Mrs. Bavender, Mrs. Beachy, Mrs. Edward Lewis, Mrs. Borror, Mrs. McGill and Miss Susan Smith.

Is Graduated

Flintstone Club Plans Picnic

Plans to have the July meeting in the form of a family picnic were formulated at the meeting of the Flintstone Homemakers Club, held in the basement of Flintstone Methodist Church. Mrs. Blaine Burgess and Mrs. H. K. Chaney were hostesses.

The club will provide the meat and beverages and each member is to bring her own place setting, bread, one dish and a dessert. The picnic will be held on the church lawn July 9 at 5 p. m.

Following the Lord's Prayer, the history of the hymn of the month, "This Is My Father's World," was given by Mrs. B. C. Robinette and sung by the group. Roll call was answered by giving the type of music each liked best, and why. The Homemakers Creed was given by Mrs. Aubrey Mauzy.

Mrs. Martin Gordon conducted a quiz on the counties and county seats of Maryland. Mrs. Oster scored highest. Mrs. Quinter Bennett received the gift of the month. Mrs. Leslie Wigfield and Mrs. Leah Twigg were presented birthday gifts from their secret sisters. The quotation of the month was read by Mrs. Ralph Moore. The closing song, "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," was sung by the group. Refreshments were served.

Other members present were Mrs. H. R. Ash, Mrs. R. T. Gilson, Mrs. Arthur Howard, Mrs. E. A. Oscar Leser, Ex-Judge, Tax Authority, Dies

BALTIMORE (AP)—Oscar Leser, former judge, tax authority and candidate for the U.S. Senate, died Thursday at the age of 89 after an illness of two years.

Leser served on Maryland's first state tax commission and after 21 years as a minority Republican member he was named chairman in 1935. The next year he was elected president of the National Tax Assn.

He was appointed to the Supreme Bench of Baltimore in 1937 and resigned the next year to run for the U.S. Senate. He was defeated by Democrat Millard E. Tydings.

Although a Republican, Leser supported Democrats Alfred E. Smith for President and William Cabell Bruce for the Senate from Maryland.

He was nominated in 1912 for postmaster of Baltimore by President Taft, but was not confirmed by the Senate.

Leser was born in St. Louis and his family moved to Philadelphia where he was educated. He was graduated from Central High School and the University of Pennsylvania.

He trained in the law offices of George Tucker Bispham and former U.S. Attorney General Wayne MacVeagh and was later associated with William H. Starke in Philadelphia. He also was on the staffs of the Weekly Notes of Cases and the Legal Intelligencer of Philadelphia.

In 1898, Leser came to Baltimore and married the former Miss Annette Agnus, daughter of the publisher of the old Baltimore American. She died in 1946 and one daughter, Mrs. Richard D. Sears of Boston survives.

Excursion Run Will Be Revived

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Maryland Port Authority boat Port Welcome will start an excursion run between Baltimore and Philadelphia Saturday.

It will be the first such excursion trip between the cities in more than 30 years.

Seven girls will serve as hostesses on the Port Welcome, which will leave the Pratt Street Pier 1 at 9:30 a.m. They are representatives of the Miss Teen-Age America Pageant, which will be held here in October.

The boat will go from Baltimore to Philadelphia each Saturday and Monday and make the return trip each Sunday and Tuesday.

Baltimorean Struck, Killed By B&O Train

BALTIMORE (AP) — Joseph C. Allen, 60, died Thursday after being hit by a Baltimore and Ohio freight train in Southwest Baltimore.

Wilmer C. Crass, 54, the engineer told police he saw the man sitting along the tracks as the train came around a curve. He put on the brakes, but the train did not stop before hitting Allen.

Trapped By Powder

PIKESVILLE (AP) — Ira T. Holman, 20, was caught fluorescent handed.

Police had sprinkled fluourescent powder on a fire alarm box which later was sounded. They said ultra violet light showed the same powder on Holman's hands.

He was sentenced to 30 days in the Baltimore County jail for the false alarm.

Cop Slayer To Undergo Further Mental Tests

SALISBURY (AP) — Johnny Brown, 39 - year - old cook twice convicted of murder in the shooting of a Salisbury policeman, has been returned to Crownsville State Hospital for further mental examination.

Attorneys Vaughn E. Richardson and Richard M. Pollitt have entered a plea of innocent by reason of insanity for the Negro defendant.

Brown was ordered to be taken to the hospital Wednesday in preparation for his third trial in the 1958 death of Patrolman Henry Thomas Stephens.

The policeman was shot to death in an alley near police headquarters after trying to arrest Brown on a bad-check charge.

Convicted in the spring of 1959, Brown was sentenced to die in the gas chamber. The court of appeals set aside the conviction on grounds that the circuit court judge had not asked prospective jurors all the questions submitted by defense counsel.

Brown was convicted a second time last November and again drew a death sentence. The Court of Appeals nullified this conviction because, it said, prosecuting attorneys improperly read to the jury part of appeallate court's opinion in the earlier reversal.

Apple Growers Association Bearing Fruit

WINCHESTER, Va. (AP) — Apple growers "are miles ahead" of where they were 25 years ago, the National Apple Institute was told Thursday.

A wealth of practical experience has been gained "in how to operate a national apple growers' association and we have a clearer understanding of our potential strength," John Chandler told the opening session of the institute's annual meeting.

Chandler, executive vice president of the New York and New England Apple Institute, told about 200 growers that the effect of the NAI's work to promote apples "is beginning to show in the market place."

A below average apple crop of 105,218,000 bushels for this year was forecast at the meeting.

The figure is 13,009,000 bushels under the USDA 1959 crop total of 118,227,000 bushels and is 4,782,000 under the 10-year USDA average of 109 million bushels.

The estimate for Virginia was 9,445,000 bushels and the USDA production figure for 1959 was 10,900,000 bushels.

West Virginia's estimate was 3,750,000 bushels against 1959 production of 5,700,000 bu.

Maryland's estimated production for 1960 is 900,000 bushels as against a 1959 crop of 1,400,000 bushels.

Pennsylvania's estimate was 4,200,000 bushels, as against a 1959 production of 7,500,000 bushels.

Church Documents Sought By Museum

BALTIMORE (AP) — Don't throw away that yellowed document you find in your attic.

The Rev. Edwin Schell, president of the Baltimore Conference Methodist Historical Society, wants it.

The Rev. Mr. Schell, who keeps historical manuscripts and documents for the Lovely Lane Museum, 2200 St. Paul St., recently found a copy of the minutes of the Conference of Reformers, held in November 1872. It was discovered in a Lutheran Church.

Maryland and Delaware are states in which American Methodism began, and the Rev. Mr. Schell thinks many valuable church documents are still to be found in the two-state area.

New Headquarters

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Geographic Society will build a five million dollar headquarters building at 17th and M streets NW.

It takes four to eight times as much soap to make a cleansing lather in hard water as in soft water.

Penquins, which behave much like people, biologically are a very primitive form of bird.

Rail Merger Effect Study Is Ordered

BALTIMORE (AP) — Acting Mayor Philip H. Goodman ordered the city solicitor Thursday to study the possible effect of several proposed railroad mergers on the port of Baltimore.

Goodman, officiating in the absence of Mayor J. Harold Grady, said he had conferred with Comptroller R. Walter Graham on the subject.

"He informed me the possible merger of the Baltimore and Ohio, and the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroads will seriously affect the port," Goodman said.

Some officials have expressed fear that C and O interests would dominate the merged system and divert to Norfolk, which handles much of the C and O freight, some of the business now funneled through Baltimore. B and O President Howard Simpson has said such fears are not justified.

Jockey Is Fined For Speeding

FREDERICK (AP) — Jockey Edward McIvor learned Thursday that driving a horse and a car are two different things.

McIvor was driving home to Baltimore May 19 after a day's work at Shenandoah Downs near Charles Town, W. Va. As he was coming into the stretch on U.S. 40 near here, a State Trooper flagged him down.

With McIvor was Joseph Paoli, a Baltimore horse owner and owner of the car.

A hearing in People's Court was postponed several times because of confusion over the status of McIvor's driving license.

With the confusion still unresolved Thursday, Magistrate Byron Thompson dismissed an illegal driving charge, but fined the jockey for speeding.

Couples married less than one year buy 40 per cent of U. S. carpets.

Baltimore Bank Guard Stabbed Fatally In Back During Argument

BALTIMORE (AP) — Leo A. Doyle, 69-year-old bank guard, was stabbed fatally in the back early Thursday morning while arguing with some neighbors.

His wife was standing nearby, but said she did not see her husband stabbed with the butcher knife.

Police questioned a 21-year-old girl and her parents.

Doyle had come home with them from a tavern. Mrs. Doyle said someone suggested having a "nightcap", or another drink.

She later went to the neighbor's apartment to suggest her husband come home since they were to start on a three-week vacation.

Mrs. Doyle told police the other woman made "nasty remarks about me." A fight started between the two men, she said, out in the back yard.

"The first thing I knew, Leo collapsed with one leg under him," she related. "It was minutes later before I saw the pool of blood beneath him and realized he had been cut."

The team of Gilbert and Sullivan composed 14 light operas during a period of 25 years.

car. He circled for some time and finally landed on a school playground. The pilot was hampered because there were mountains on all sides, it was raining and the mountain peaks were covered by fog and clouds.

Vehicle Abandoned

"When the helicopter arrived back in Taipei, we were given quite a welcome. The pilot and crew were grand and awful glad to help us. Our vehicle is still up in the mountains.

"The mountain people were very nice to us. On Saturday afternoon they carried rice, some canned meat and fish to us. May God bless them.

"We were concerned about the nurse who has a husband and two boys and the driver who has a wife and several children. There were no telephone communications and everything was cut off. God watched over and protected us on that wild Friday ride through the storm. The danger was falling rocks and trees."

The helicopter referred to by Brother Francis was from the cruiser USS St. Paul and had been assigned to the Taipei area to transport President Eisenhower during his tour of that section.

"Old China Hand"

Major Acquilla M. Blaydes, who piloted the Marine helicopter, gladly consented to try to rescue the stranded missionaries after Father Statham had hiked for two days to bring back word of the plight of the group still in the mountains.

Brother Francis is an "old China hand," having spent 21 years on the Chinese mainland. He was in Hong Kong for seven years before going to Formosa in 1957.

Brother Francis' secular name was Theodore Wempe. Prior to becoming a Maryknoll brother he was a telegraph operator on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. He will observe his 60th birthday Sunday.

advisors; Earl W. Kintner, chairman, Federal Trade Commission; Robert A. Bicks, assistant attorney general, Antitrust Department of the Department of Justice; Carl F. Oechsle, assistant secretary of domestic affairs; and Edward N. Gadsby, chairman, Securities and Exchange Commission.

Mr. Ort, having learned the baking business from the flour sack to the grocer's shelf, worked for his father when the latter ran an obscure bake shop in Midland, and later, when the bakery grew and moved to Cumberland he mixed dough, drove a truck, and became a salesman.

In recent years he has become the only small baker in the country to become syndicated—that is, manufacturing a product that is sent out in formula form to bakeries all over the country. This is done through Maryland Mills, located in LaVale.

He has been involved in every kind of community, fraternal and religious activity, and recently was named to a national office with the USO, representing the Salvation Army. He had previously served as chairman of the Salvation Army Advisory Board and became the youngest life member of that body in the United States.

He helped to promote local air shows, being an avid flyer himself, and was instrumental in getting the Cumberland Lions Club to sponsor the sports car races. When the races expanded into a community-wide celebration this year, he headed the committee that brought the daughter of the Spanish ambassador here to reign over the festivities.

The government's new small business consultant has been president of the National Dinner Club, the Exchange Club, the Presbyterian Men's Club and the board of trustees of First Presbyterian Church. He has also seen service as a director of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, and has been active in Ohr Lodge 131, AF & AM; Ali Ghan Temple, AAONMS; and the Royal Order of Jesters.

Best known, perhaps, as a fund-raiser, Mr. Ort has had a leading part in Catholic, Protestant and Jewish fund drives from Ogdensburg, N. Y., to Fort Lauderdale, Fla. The first local Community Chest drive he headed here went $15,000 over its goal—and he then began the organization of County United Fund, which has achieved nearly $1 million for the benefit of health, welfare and youth agencies in Allegany and Mineral counties during the past three years.

The new small-business consultant lives in LaVale with his wife, Pearl, and four daughters, Karen, Cherie, Marlee and Tana, who was born six weeks ago.

On Summer Cruise

Charles L. Davis, city, seaman apprentice, left Boston this month aboard the heavy cruiser USS Macon, bound for Norfolk, Va., and embarkation of 215 U. S. Naval Academy midshipmen for a summer training cruise to Canada, Massachusetts and Bermuda.

Judge Praises TV And Movie Court Scenes

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A Los Angeles Superior Court judge who is in a position to know says movies and television are doing a better job of portraying court scenes and lawyers than they did in years past.

Judge Robert H. Patton, who spent 16 years in the legal department of 20th Century Fox, also has a good word for Hollywood agents and for California's "Jackie Coogan" law to protect child actors.

As a movieland attorney, Judge Patton wrote contracts for movie stars, directors and producers.

He also was technical director for the trial scene in the movie "Peyton Place." "They did a nice job with that one," he said.

"I think trial scenes are constantly getting better," he said. "Lawyers within the entertainment industry and the bar associations have used their influence to improve the appearance given trials."

He cites producer Jerry Wald as an example of an attorney working in show business. "He tries to keep the standards high," the judge said.

Judge Patton, obviously not a movie fan, is an acknowledged whiz at Hollywood's fine print but occasionally stumbles when it comes to the big print on show business placards.

Asked about some of the contracts he had negotiated — and some of the famous stars whose autographs he had collected on the dotted line — he said, "I did a lot of work on that Marlon Brando picture that was done in Germany...you know the one I mean..."

He looked up hopefully. "Let's see," he said, obviously groping. "What was the name?" (It was "The Young Lions.")

One name he does remember is Perry Mason.

"I think Perry portrays a lawyer in an admirable light," he said. "The trials are not realistic but are shortened for dramatic effect. But it is interesting. It is one of the few television shows I watch.

"One of the things it does is show criminal lawyers in an admirable light."

One of Patton's jobs with the movie studio was dealing with Hollywood agents when it came down to the clutch in getting an actor or actress on the payroll.

"Something often overlooked is the remarkable service that agents in show business do for their clients for 10 per cent," he said.

"I have often wondered why prizefighters couldn't get the same quality of service.

"Hollywood agents are nearly all ethical. They are always trying to get the most they can for their clients and that is what they are supposed to do."

NEW YORK (UPI)—Our British cousins concede it's a draw in the battle of Anglo - American pundits poking fun at marriage.

The cousins running up the white flag in the humor arena are the editors of Punch, Britain's leading humor magazine. The jolly well funniest of Punch's cartoons are displayed at the British exhibit in New York.

But posted alongside the Punch etchings are rib ticklers from America's leading humor magazine, the New Yorker.

The Punch folks aren't embarrassed about the presence of Yankee fruits of the mind at the strictly John Bull show. The New Yorker was drawn into the British act to prove that "humor loses little by crossing the Atlantic either way."

In the "Mostly Marriage" sector of the cartoon display, Punch shows a drawing with this cutline: "My compliments to the chef." The scene is a restaurant. The speaker is the husband of the woman who had been sitting at the table for two. The drawing shows her stretched out on the floor, obviously dead.

The punch-line on a neighboring cartoon: "Remember our first meal together — when we sat on soap boxes and ate off a tea chest?" The cartoon shows them — man and woman — sitting on caviar and pate de foie gras chests and eating off champagne and cognac boxes.

In another jab at marriage, Punch shows a drawing of a man-ly-man standing idly by while the contents of a pan on the stove boil over. He's saying: "Mil's boiling over."

The "Mostly Marriage" entries also include a cartoon titled the "child hater." He's a balloon vendor and his customers are kids. When the toddlers buy one of his balloons, they float away. The balloons are inflated with gas powerful enough to accomplish this.

The New Yorker entries in the "Mostly Marriage" sector include one of a poker-faced prince and princess visiting a marriage counselor. They're saying: "We didn't live happily ever after."

The New Yorker also contributes a two-panel drawing having to do with marriage and money. The first panel shows a bundle-laden woman getting out of a car in front of her house. She's saying —"When my husband sees how much I bought, he'll throw me out of the house."

The second panel shows the woman sprawled on the sidewalk with the bundles on top of her.

Joe E. Brown Mav Become '61 TV Regular

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Joe E. Brown, one of the few men in the world not to take umbrage when chided, "you and your big mouth," may become a television regular next season in a new situation comedy series.

The 68-year - old funnyman already has completed the pilot film of "For the Love of Gramps" which currently is seeking a sponsor.

"I play a retired detective," he explained, "which is right in keeping with the trend toward private eye shows. But it also is a comedy. You see, I stay at home solving crimes from an armchair while my son-in-law does all the leg work."

Brown, spry and optimistic, does his own leg work in real life.

This summer he will busy himself starring as Captain Andy in a stage version of "Showboat" both in San Francisco and Los Angeles.

He will hie off for his youthful stamping grounds in Ohio to appear in "Father of the Bride" in Canal Fulton. He will play the same role for two weeks in Hinsdale, Ill.

Certainly Brown is financially secure. He has a lovely home in movietown, and all the honors a performer can handle in a lifetime. Why does he insist on working?

"I want to keep busy doing something all the time," he said, adding, "and this TV show also presents an opportunity to bring back some innocent laughs for the entire family.

Much of Brown's time is devoted to his favorite avocation—baseball.

In addition to starring in three baseball pictures, "Fireman Save My Child," "Elmer the Great" and "Alibi Ike," the rubber-faced funnyman once played semi-pro ball and took part in a couple of exhibition games with the Boston Red Sox in 1920.

"Now I limit my activities to the youth of baseball," he said.

Retirement?

"Not a chance," Brown concluded. "I'm having too much fun keeping busy. As long as I can make people laugh, I'll keep working."

Needs Of Aged Great Challenge Facing Religion

By CLAIRE COX

NEW YORK (UPI) — The greatest challenge confronting religion today may be the need for a ministry to the aged, according to leaders of the three major faiths.

The three, a Roman Catholic, a Protestant and a Jew, prepared a background paper on "Religion and The Aging" for the White House Conference on Aging, to be held next January.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare authorized release of the paper, written by the Rev. Donald Campion, associate editor of the Catholic weekly America, the Rev. Harold Hass, executive secretary of the United Lutheran Church, and Rabbi Marc Tannenbaum, executive director of the Synagogue Council of America.

"Religion has meaning for all of human existence from the moment of birth to the moment of death," the clergymen agreed. "It is a fallacy to think of it as having more significance for one age than for another."

They pointed out that the classical picture of the aged person is that of a venerable patriarch or matriarch, full of years of wisdom, accorded respect by tradition. But in actuality, today, they said, such a portrait is "something divorced from . . .realities."

Families have changed, the report said, so that the old-fashioned three-generation household has declined. Urbanization has increased the number of small dwelling units, limiting the number of persons who can occupy them, it said, and resulting in increasing physical and social isolation of senior citizens.

"Only 10 per cent of those who reach retirement move from the communities in which they live," the clergymen reported. "Instead it is the younger generation that has left the old neighborhood and the old home town.

With the diminished status of the elderly and their segregation, the report said, has come a seemingly severe breakdown in the communication between generations.

"In a society which places so much emphasis on competition and productivity, it is obvious that esteem for the aged tends to be imperilled," the clergymen said.

The report said that the needs of the aged remain substantially the same from generation to generation. They include sufficient money, sound health, comfortable and suitable housing, recognition of personal dignity and self-respect and meaningful activities in retirement.

"While the churches and synagogues have been expanding activities for children and youth on the levels of instruction and social action," it asked, "have they made corresponding efforts commensurate with the special needs of the vastly increased number of old members in their congregations?

"...It may well be that the greatest challenge confronting religion is to strengthen, by enlightened instruction and fitting ritual, those who find themselves walking into (the) evening."

Yellow fever made its first recorded appearance in North America in severe epidemic in New York and Philadelphia in 1668.

New Catechism Appeals To Children

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

Catechism classes, long regarded as a trying affair by many a Catholic child, today are taking on sprightly appeal.

The kids even enjoy them.

In a growing number of cases, the traditionally stiff theological indoctrination sessions are being made less difficult and more dramatic as a result of a 10-year project completed recently.

"It's absolutely sensational," says the Rt. Rev. Msgr. John P. Wodarski, of Hartford, Conn. "It's a dream come true."

It provides means for the staid old question-and-answer method of instilling church concepts to be enlivened with pointed vignettes and modern-life situations in sound and color films, geared to a child's ordinary associations.

The new series is called the St. John's catechism.

Its completion, involving the work of 24 church scholars and specialists and costing $300,000 over the last decade, came in the 75th anniversary year of the familiar Baltimore catechism.

The Baltimore catechism, first published in 1885, is the standard question-and-answer text on doctrine used in Catholic schools throughout the country.

Its content, setting forth church teachings about God, the creation, the Redemption, the Sacraments and the Commandments, is covered in the new catechism—but in the form of stories, illustrations and analogies.

"It's not a series of Bible stories, but genuine philosophy and theology for children," says the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Charles M. Walsh, of New York. "It translates doctrine clearly and memorably in terms of everyday life."

Portions of the new catechism, including altogether 30 film strips of 10 minutes each along with recorded voices and sound effects, already are in use in 10,000 of the church's 17,000 parishes.

Some adult classes also are using parts of it. So are a number of Protestant churches. Foreign language versions also are being turned out.

"It already has revolutionized the whole approach," says Msgr. Walsh, one of several diocesan doctrinal experts serving as advisors on the project.

Others, besides Msgr. Wodarski, include: The Very Rev. Msgr. Lawrence W. Lynch, of Chicago; the Rev. David J. Coffey, of Providence, R.I., and the Rev. Thomas Savage, of Manchester, N.H.

Scripts for the catechism were written by the Rev. Philip E. Dion, of Emmitsburg, Md., and the Rev. Lawrence A. Lonergan, of St. John's, who also supervised the art work. Vincent Colabella, of Yonkers, N.Y., did the color drawings.

Sponsored by St. John's, the new catechism is not intended to replace the Baltimore catechism, but to supplement it, and add interest and clarity to the more formalized and difficult statements of belief.

Maryland Is Probing Mass Death Of Fish

Preliminary investigation of mass fish deaths in Maryland streams has been started by the State Game and Inland Fish Commission and the Tidewater Fisheries Commission.

The workload of the stream checking will be assumed by the two agencies. Paul W. McKee, director of the State Water Pollution Control Commission, requested the program and plans were completed at a meeting Wednesday for the work.

Meanwhile, Regional Game Warden Joseph A. Minke said wardens in Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties have been doing daily checks of stream conditions. They make tests of water for pollution, silting and in case of deaths send the fish to state agencies for biological examination.

This year so far the heavy rainfall has kept streams at capacity and has prevented any mass deaths due to lack of oxygen and accumulation of poisonous material. Last year hundreds of fish perished below Cumberland in the Potomac River due to the drought conditions and accumulation of noxious materials, Minke pointed out.

The new arrangement, which still has a lot of details to be worked out, calls for management personnel of the two commissions to make preliminary investigations and then call upon other state research agencies for any follow-up work that may be required.

In addition to the agencies already named, representatives of the department of Research and Education, Chesapeake Bay Institute, Federal Fish and Wildlife Service and the Board of Natural resources were also present for the meeting.

The group agreed on the difficulty of attributing mass mortalities to any one cause but listed several known factors. They included: environmental and natural, biological change, chemical, physical, commercial and sport fishing, and unknown.

In addition to the reporting and investigation procedures, the agencies also discussed tentative, long - range research procedures, aimed at isolating the cause of such mass mortalities.

Cancer Unit Needs Old Sheets

An urgent appeal for old sheets to be distributed to needy cancer patients was made yesterday by Mrs. Jean Cioni, executive secretary of Allegany Chapter, American Cancer Society.

"Our supply of sheets is exhausted and we received calls this morning from the families of two persons in need of sheets as well as cancer dressing," she said. "We always have an adequate supply of dressings, furnished by the Cancer Society, and prepared by women volunteers, but we must depend on the general public to contribute old sheets."

"Our present case load of indigent patients is 63 persons," Mrs. Cioni added, "and of this number approximately 30 require sheets which must be burned following use. They cannot be laundered and used a second time."

Cumberland tri-state area residents having old sheets to contribute can take them to the Allegany Chapter headquarters, 128 Union Street, between 9 a. m. and 5 p. m. or arrange to have them picked up by phoning the office PA 2-2145 between those hours.

Apple Crop Estimates Below 1959 Mark

The 1960 apple crop in Maryland and West Virginia was figured yesterday at the National Apple Institute meeting in Winchester to be considerably lower than last year's production.

Representatitves from all apple-producing states are meeting in Winchester and after consultation yesterday the June "guesstimate" was reached for various areas and for the nation.

Maryland's production is figured to be 900,000 bushels as compared to 1,400,000 for last year.

West Virginia's crop this year is figured to be 3,750,000 bushels as compared to 5,700,000 bushels for 1959.

Henry W. Miller Jr., president of the Consolidated Orchards Inc., said yesterday that the institute set the national crop at 105,218,000 bushels.

Actual production according to Department of Agriculture figures in other years was as follows:

1959—118,227,000 bushels; 1958—126,610,000 bushels, and 1957—118,548,000 bushels.

Miller reported that representatives from the far western apple states and those from East Coast states reported the crops generally lighter.

But the midwest will have increased tonnage, it was reported, especially in Illinois, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Indiana and Ohio.

The largest glacier in Switzerland is the Aletsch glacier, between Finsteraarhorn, highest peak of the Bernese Oberland, and the Jungfrau and Aletschhorn groups.

Maryland Is Probing Mass Death Of Fish

Preliminary investigation of mass fish deaths in Maryland streams has been started by the State Game and Inland Fish Commission and the Tidewater Fisheries Commission.

The workload of the stream checking will be assumed by the two agencies. Paul W. McKee, director of the State Water Pollution Control Commission, requested the program and plans were completed at a meeting Wednesday for the work.

Meanwhile, Regional Game Warden Joseph A. Minke said wardens in Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties have been doing daily checks of stream conditions. They make tests of water for pollution, silting and in case of deaths send the fish to state agencies for biological examination.

This year so far the heavy rainfall has kept streams at capacity and has prevented any mass deaths due to lack of oxygen and accumulation of poisonous material. Last year hundreds of fish perished below Cumberland in the Potomac River due to the drought conditions and accumulation of noxious materials, Minke pointed out.

The new arrangement, which still has a lot of details to be worked out, calls for management personnel of the two commissions to make preliminary investigations and then call upon other state research agencies for any follow-up work that may be required.

In addition to the agencies already named, representatives of the department of Research and Education, Chesapeake Bay Institute, Federal Fish and Wildlife Service and the Board of Natural resources were also present for the meeting.

The group agreed on the difficulty of attributing mass mortalities to any one cause but listed several known factors. They included: environmental and natural, biological change, chemical, physical, commercial and sport fishing, and unknown.

In addition to the reporting and investigation procedures, the agencies also discussed tentative, long - range research procedures, aimed at isolating the cause of such mass mortalities.

Market Rises But Late Resistance Trims Gain

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks advanced sharply in the early part of the session Thursday but ran out of steam around the close to finish well below their highs.

Rail issues ran into some stiff resistance in the late trading after being up more than a point at their best. On average, they registered a 0.08-point gain on the day and finished at 143.15.

Railroad companies and the 107,000 - member Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen reached agreement on a new wage contract, but rail officials estimated the pact would boost wage costs by 30 million dollars a year.

It was the second successive market rise accompanied by a good steel performance. Gains here ran to 2 points in Republic, 1¼ in Lukens, ¾ in Youngstown and around a point in U.S. Steel.

Market experts have been particularly anxious that the railroads break out of the narrow trading range in which they have fluctuated since January, and confirm some of the upside tendencies displayed by leading industrials. Others believe the market has reached a logical support zone from which the early June rally can be resumed.

Trading expanded slightly to 3,620,000 shares from 3,600,000 the day before.

A total of 1,196 issues crossed the tape. A plurality of 567 advanced, 58 to new highs, and 409 declined, with 23 to new lows.

Market Rises But Late Resistance Trims Gain

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks advanced sharply in the early part of the session Thursday but ran out of steam around the close to finish well below their highs.

Rail issues ran into some stiff resistance in the late trading after being up more than a point at their best. On average, they registered a 0.08-point gain on the day and finished at 143.15.

Railroad companies and the 107,000 - member Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen reached agreement on a new wage contract, but rail officials estimated the pact would boost wage costs by 30 million dollars a year.

It was the second successive market rise accompanied by a good steel performance. Gains here ran to 2 points in Republic, 1¼ in Lukens, ¾ in Youngstown and around a point in U.S. Steel.

Market experts have been particularly anxious that the railroads break out of the narrow trading range in which they have fluctuated since January, and confirm some of the upside tendencies displayed by leading industrials. Others believe the market has reached a logical support zone from which the early June rally can be resumed.

Trading expanded slightly to 3,620,000 shares from 3,600,000 the day before.

A total of 1,196 issues crossed the tape. A plurality of 567 advanced, 58 to new highs, and 409 declined, with 23 to new lows.

Local Pilots Planning Aerial Rally On Sunday

An aerial rally will be held Sunday at the Cumberland Municipal Airport by the Cumberland Pilots Association.

Activities will begin at 9 a. m. and area flyers will participate, it was announced at the association's last meeting at the airport administration building.

Several pilots have already entered the rally and trophies will be awarded to winners of the various events.

Lorimer Twigg and Edwin L. Robeson were appointed at the meeting to check into the availability of suitable radio to be used by the association at the airport.

The radio originally acquired through funds raised by the pilots was not powerful enough.

A nominating committee appointed to report at the annual election in October is composed of Mrs. Robert Poling, Robeson and George Nash.

Arrangements are being made to fly to the Piper Aircraft Corporation at Lock Haven, Pa., for a tour of the plant.

Air Force films entitled "Learn and Live" and "Interpreting Weather For Landing" were shown by Ellsworth Rosemerkle.

The next meeting will be held Thursday, July 21, at 7 p. m. at the residence of Quinter Fike, LaVale.

A picnic supper will be served and the committee on arrangements includes Mrs. Bruce Dawson, Mrs. George Nash and Mrs. Helen Knippenberg.

Strip Mining Sites Being Tree-Planted

The State Department of Forests and Parks is working in cooperation with strip coal operators in Allegany and Garrett counties in an attempt to reforest the unsightly piles of earth remaining after diggings are vacated.

In many sections, large mounds of shale, rock and earth are left to mar the landscape of the mountains of Western Maryland after the coal has been removed.

Those mounds grew up in the days before a strict strip mining bill was passed by the General Assembly.

Today, the mine operator has to post bond for each acre mined, and in the event there has been no backfilling, the bond is forfeited.

However, in order to attempt to beautify the product of earlier days of strip mining, the department of forests and parks is conducting a reforestation program on the high banks of earth.

The department's first step is to get the owner of the land interested in a tree planting program.

Then the department furnishes the trees while the owner plants them. One man can plant 500 trees a day, and the forestry unit has a planter that it will rent at a nominal fee.

This year, Consolidated Fuel Company received 156,000 trees, and 57,000 of these were put out in the vicinity of Vale Summit and the Hansel Farm.

The Hoffa Coal Company in the Barton area received 20,000 trees, Charles Clise on Jackson Hill, Lonaconing, 10,000 while others were placed out on the Eckhart coal properties on Piney Mountain and in the Barton area.

The Moran Coal Company of Westernport in cooperation with West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company planted two acres on Franklin Hill above Westernport.

Harry M. Hartman Jr., assistant district forester, said three species of pines, the red, white and Virginia pine, together with locusts are set out on these banks.

They are best suited to the poor, shaley earth, Hartman said, and in time the root system provides a good protection against erosion.

The Porpoise As A Naval Weapon

United States Navy planners haven't introduced it to the public yet, but along with their Polaris missile-equipped submarines and nuclear-powered fleet, the sea arm of Uncle Sam's military might has a new secret weapon which could prove more valuable than all the others. In its China Lake, Calif., naval ordnance test station, the Navy is testing its newest discovery.

If naval expectations are met, the new weapon will make the frogman obsolete. It will become the Navy's underwater eyes, tracing enemy harbor installations, mine layouts and shipping. It will also be an invaluable underwater carrier, transporting mines to the vicinity of enemy shipping, directing torpedoes toward their objectives and otherwise performing dangerous and deadly naval operations.

It is capable of traveling up to 40 knots, is too small to be noticed on radar and has a built-in sonar which permits it to navigate through obstacles.

The secret weapon is the porpoise. Naval strategists are fascinated by the speed and intelligence of this playful water mammal. It has proved itself capable of performing difficult feats by command, it is faithful to its master and it asks for little in return but an extra ration of fish. Scientists at the station are interested in more than the porpoise's abilities as an underwater saboteur.

They want to know why the porpoise can outswim most fish and outdistance manmade water travelers. Instruments strapped to test porpoises will reveal whether the layer of blood vessels under the skin act as a heat agent to separate the water and whether there is anything to theories that the porpoise's skin ripples as it glides through the water and thus eliminates the tiny friction bubbles produced by most water vehicles.

From these tests may come new underwater weapons with heated noses and pliable skins to reduce friction and increase speed. And pools of trained porpoises may accompany warships of the future, not as entertainment for the troops but as a vital reconnaissance and demolition team of a formidable defense system.

'Now Let's See - Where To From Japan?'

Justice Douglas' Criticism Of Supreme Court

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — There is a kind of quiz that appears in some newspapers, in which on one page it is asked: "Who said this?" then the answer is given on another page.

Well, who is the author of the following:

"Yet important as these civil rights are, it will not do to sacrifice other civil rights in order to protect them. We live and work under a Constitution. The tempta tion of many men of goodwill is to cut corners, take short cuts, and reach the desired end regardless of the means. Worthy as I think the ends are which the Civil Rights Commission advances in these cases, I think the particular means used are unconstitutional."

Was the foregoing comment expressed by some critic who feels that the desegregation decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in 1954 ignored the rights of the states to control their school systems? Was it written by someone who, like this correspondent, questioned the legality of the "sit-in" demonstrations at the lunch counters in the South only to hear the Rev. Martin Luther King say on television that, while it may be a violation of local law to trespass on premises in which there is a lunchroom and stay there demanding service, the end morally justifies the means?

The answer is that the paragraph quoted above comes from the pen of Justice William O. Douglas of the Supreme Court of the United States this week in a dissenting opinion in which he and justice Hugo Black announced their differences with the other seven Justices of the Court.

The issue concerned the refusal of registrars in the South, accused of voting-law violations, to testify before the Civil Rights Commission when they were denied copies of the charges against them and were not permitted to confront or cross-examine those making the charges. The commission was given by Congress certain powers of investigation, including the right to subpoena witnesses, and the commission's procedure had been to deny to such witnesses the right to confront and cross-examine other witnesses who, by their testimony, might seek to damage them. The Supreme Court's majority held this week that the commission's hearing was just an "investigation" to get the facts and not to prosecute anybody, so the "due process" safeguards are not necessary, particularly as the testimony could be taken in secret.

It will be recalled that last year the Supreme Court had a difficult time with the same issue when security clearances in defense plants were involved. The Court said then that, unless specifically authorized by the President or Congress, a government department cannot deprive a man of his job "in a proceeding in which he was not afforded the safeguards of confrontation and cross-examination."

But now the majority of the Court has apparently reversed itself by insisting that hearings of the Civil Rights Commission are simply "investigations" by an executive agency and do not have anything to do with a judicial proceeding and that there are adequate safeguards anyway. Justice Douglas, however, doesn't accept this rationalization. He says:

"The procedure seems to me patently unconstitutional whether the hearing is public or secret. Under the commission's rules the accused is deprived of the right to notice of the charges against him and the opportunity of cross-examination. . . . and even if the commission were inclined in a particular case to protect the accused from the opprobrium likely to flow from the testimony of individual witnesses against him by holding secret sessions, this would be little comfort after the commission's findings, based on such untested evidence, were publicized across the nation."

Justice Douglas insists that the Civil Rights Commission is not an arm of Congress but is an arm of the Executive and that the only way the Chief Executive may move against a person accused of crime and deny him the right of cross-examination is by a grand jury proceeding. He adds that the instant case is "a device to expose people as suspects or criminals," and he says of the Supreme Court Justices themselves that "personal preference, not reason, seems to be controlling." Here is the most severe criticism that Justice Douglas wrote about the inconsistencies of his fellow Justices on the Supreme Court as well as judges generally:

"Yet one who tries to rationalize the cases on cold logic or reason fails. The answer turns on the personal predilections of the judge; and the louder the denial the more evident it is that emotion rather than reason dictates the answer. This is a serious price to pay for adopting a free-wheeling concept of due process, rather than confining it to the procedures and devices enumerated in the Constitution itself. . . .

"We look to the Constitution — not to the personal predilections of the judges — to see what is permissible. Since summoning an accused by the government to explain or justify his conduct, that is charged as a crime, may be done only in one way (by grand jury proceedings), I would require a Constitutional Amendment before it can be done in a different way."

This echoes the demand of many citizens who felt in 1954 that reversal of a long-time precedent by the Supreme Court was wrong and that the "law of the land" should be changed after such a long lapse of time only by a Constitutional amendment.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

NIXON AD LIBS—Vice President Richard M. Nixon is going to make greater use of the informal, impromptu kind of speech as his campaign for the Presidency picks up steam.

As other politicians before him, Nixon has discovered that he seems to get through to his audiences much more effectively when ad-libbing. It increases the warmth and sincerity of his approach to the voters.

Nixon says he'd like to throw all his set speeches away, but that is impossible, of course. In the first place, some of the things Nixon or any candidate must discuss, particularly foreign and defense policy, have to be stated in carefully chosen words in order not to create an inadvertent international incident.

Secondly, Nixon's enemies will be looking for the slip of the tongue which is inevitable in these unprepared remarks, to attack him. However, Nixon will try to talk in an unprepared, flowing manner, perhaps memorizing some key thoughts and phrases on the delicate issues he plans to discuss.

Why Cleaner Air Is A Community Problem

By Dr. Theod R. Van Dellen

The average city dweller has lungs that are dirty gray in appearance and dotted with hundreds of black spots along the air passageways. The lungs of a farmer or sailor are cleaner, whereas those of a coal miner are darker. The infant, on the other hand, has lungs that are as pink and clean as his complexion.

We like to think that Mother Nature expected us to breathe pure air consisting mainly of oxygen, nitrogen, and argon. But she predicted that the air might be polluted because the lungs come equipped with a self-cleansing mechanism plus a method of handling large particles of dust, sand, and dirt.

Most of the inhaled dust irritates the bronchi, which in turn secretes mucus. This mixture is then eliminated as sputum. The remaining particles are absorbed by the lungs and deposited in the tissues where they stay. These are the black spots referred to previously.

Quartz dust is absorbed, too, but irritates lung tissue, producing scars. This is serious, especially among sand-blasters and hard-rock miners who are not protected and who have inhaled the dust for many years. The lungs are overloaded with scar tissue and shortness of breath ensues when they fail to expand.

Most of us do well despite the dirt we inhale. The lungs get a bit dirty but this doesn't show. The irritation is annoying when it contributes to cough or asthma. But air pollution cannot be taken lightly because it may contribute to the development of lung cancer.

Nowadays the air also includes many poisonous gases and vapors. The exhausts from automobiles, for example, emit almost 200 different fumes. Cleaner air is a community project that deserves your attention.

TOMORROW: Taking the temperature.

LUNG COLLAPSE

H. L. G. writes: How long does it take to recuperate from a collapsed lung?

REPLY

The length of time depends upon why the lung collapsed. It might take months if tuberculosis is responsible or less than three weeks should the cause be a blowout of a harmless little bleb along the edge of the lung.

RUMORS ABOUT SALT

T. C. writes: I've heard many claims that the use of salt causes high blood pressure and hardening of the arteries. Is this factual or merely hearsay?

REPLY

Salt aggravates high blood pressure and dropsy after they occur but does not cause these disorders.

TOO MUCH COPPER

A. C. writes: What would cause too much copper in the blood?

REPLY

A high absorption of copper by the intestinal tract. The body usually absorbs what it needs from the foods consumed. But in Wilson's disease—which is rare—there is a greater absorption of copper. As a result, the concentration of this mineral is increased tenfold in the liver, brain, and other tissues.

SWELLING AFTER INJURY

M. J. writes: Why does bruised flesh swell?

REPLY

Because blood or serum flows into the injured area.

ORANGE JUICE ASH

J. N. T. writes: To settle a bet, tell us whether fresh orange gives an acid or an alkali ash.

REPLY

Orange juice contains citric acid but it does not contribute to acidity because the acid radical is used up by oxidation.

APPETITE SUPPRESSANTS

Mrs. L. E. writes: Is there a pill I can take to stop me from eating too much?

REPLY

There are many pills on the market that are touted as appetite suppressants. They help some but all too often the effect wears off after a few weeks of usage.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of diseases will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

A well-broken-in husband clucked his tongue over a financial item in his evening paper. "Land's sake!" he told his wife. "American Tel and Tel made almost a billion dollars in 1959." "Could be," disparaged his wife, "but I wonder if they're REALLY happy!"

A gent whose capacity for hard liquor was nowhere near as great as he thought it was tended to grow more boastful with each successive slug. A scornful competitor tagged him as "the first saleman to become a billionaire by striking bourbon."

A census taker was calling on a rather sporty looking housewife when the maid arrived with a trayful of double martinis. "Have one," suggested the housewife genially. "In fact, have two—or three—or six. I usually do myself."

"Okay," beamed the visitor. "You are about to see a girl take leave of her census."

Secret Telephone Squads Conducted Nixon Campaigns In Two Primaries

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—A secret campaign document has now leaked out showing how Vice President Nixon rolled up such big votes in th. Indiana and California primaries—supposedly without campaigning.

The document shows how telephone squads were organized in both states to call registered Republicans in a high-powered drive to demonstrate Nixon's popular appeal.

A copy of the secret instruction sheet, issued to the telephone operators, has now reached this column. It casts a revealing light on Nixon's latest campaign technique. Here are the instructions with the same words underlined as in the original:

"1. Call only registered Republicans.

"2. Make only one call per family.

"3. If call is completed, mark a check after the completed call in pencil.

"4. If anyone inquires as to whether you are paid or for whom you are working, say you do not know.

"5. This canvass is CONFIDENTIAL. Do not give information to anyone.

"6. Payment will only be made for completed calls, and your check marks showing completed calls will be the basis for payment. The lists should be returned immediately after the primary election, in good condition, and after spot checking of the lists, payment will be made."

The telephone operators were also issued a written spiel that they were supposed to use, telling the voters in each state exactly how to mark their ballots.

"Your help in electing Richard Nixon our next President is needed," they were instructed to say. "Please tell your family, your friends and neighbors to vote for NIXON, too."

Note—In past years a Senate committee has kept an eye on campaign money spent in primaries and elections. Today the Senate Rules Committee is bogged down with illness and age and Sen. Lyndon Johnson won't appoint a new committee.

Hot Words

Hot words flowed and accusations of Congressional leaks were hurled as the House Appropriations Committee wrestled over how much foreign aid should be voted to stop the march of communism.

At one point Congressman John Rooney, the Brooklyn Democrat, jumped to his feet as if he was about to take a poke at Congressman Silvio Conte, Massachusetts Republican.

Despite the defeats which the United States has taken recently in Paris and Tokyo, Rooney has wanted to curtail the voice of America and foreign aid generally. In contrast, Rooney, a friend of Charles Patrick Clark, registered agent for Franco, has wanted to earmark $50,000,000 for dictator Franco in Spain, on top of other heavy appropirations to support Spanish-U. S. bases.

Young Congressman Conte, fighting behind closed doors to save the Eisenhower foreign aid budget, produced a cablegram from Gen. Lauris Norstad, opposing a $790 million cut in the NATO budget.

"General Norstad says this will have a disastrous effect on NATO operations," declared Conte. "Let me read you his cablegrom."

"Just a minute," interjected Rooney. "Can it be that the gentleman from Massachusetts has been advising General Norstad of the closed-door proceedings of this committee? Mr. Chairman, isn't there a rule against divulging what we do here in executive session?"

"You are absolutely right," agreed Chairman Clarence Cannon, Missouri Democrat.

"Well, now, I'm glad the gentleman from Brooklyn has raised this question," shot back Republican Conte. "I know something about the rules regarding secrecy. General Norstad didn't have to get any information from me. The fact that this committee was seeking to cut the President's foreign aid budget by $790 million was all in the newspapers.

"When a reporter called me about it, I told him that I couldn't talk to him about the confidential work of the committee. But this reporter read to me a newspaper story containing detailed information about every cut the committee was making in the foreign aid appropriation. He said a 'high-ranking Democrat' was the source of the story and that it was carried on an Associated Press wire out of New York City."

"Is the Congressman from Massachusetts insinuating that I leaked that story?" shouted Democrat Rooney, jumping to his feet and pounding the committee table furiously.

"I'm not insinuating anything or accusing anyone," countered Conte. "But if the shoe fits, the gentleman may wear it."

"Just a minute—just a minute," exclaimed Rooney, continuing to pound the table. "I don't have to listen to this—"

Colleagues finally calmed him down.

Note — The Democrat who fought hardest in committee against "drastically slashing foreign aid in these troubled times" was Rep. Dan Flood of Pennsylvania. He was joined by Democrats Sid Yates and George Shipley of Illinois in opposing the $790 million cut. All other Democrats, including Chairman Cannon, voted for the big cut. Five Republicans—Ben Jensen (Iowa), Carl Andersen (Minn.), Walter Horan (Wash.), Charles Jonas (N. Car.), and Phil Weaver (Neb.) also deserted Eisenhower in voting for the $790 million slash. In the final vote on the House floor $200 million of this was finally restored.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

At a party, the woman with the mink coat is the one who will not hang it up in the hall closet on the way in. She must wear it into the living room — no matter how many times the guests have seen it — and she says her devine hellos to one and all with the coat open, one hand on a hip so that the lining shows a little.

The mink coat has, for many years, been the badge of success. It is to the woman what v.p. on an office door is to a man. I have seen them worn on the hottest nights on Collins Avenue in Miami Beach, on the Sunset Strip in Los Angeles, at The Sands in Vegas, along The Strand in London (although not so many as elsewhere) and in Rome.

It is ironic that a woman who dreads being seen in the same gown twice, will wear the same coat a hundred times and will flaunt it with cruelty at her less fortunate sisters. One of the devices she uses is to treat the coat with disdain — as though there were more where that came from. These women take the coat off, eventually, and throw it across a chair or on the floor.

The Bishop family got minkish in 1955. About a month before Christmas, I said to Elinor: "What would you like for Christmas?" I knew the answer. "Nothing. Send me a nice card." She said this every year. If I had followed her suggestion, I'd have been strangled in my sleep.

The trick was to keep asking. At last she allowed herself to be jammed into a corner. Then she had me where she wanted me. "If you want to play it big," she said, "a mink coat would be nice." Then, before I could answer, she said: "Of course that's crazy. They cost a fortune — I mean, a good one costs a lot — and I know you wouldn't want me to have something that looked like a rusty rabbit — oh, forget it. It's crazy."

So Gayle and I went to buy a mink coat. A man in an elegant office told us to be seated and, in a few minutes, lovely girls walked through wearing mink coats closed. They opened the buttons, smiled, stuck their hands in the deep pockets, turned this way and that, and left. This went on for some time. Gayle and I took a vote. We knew which one we liked. We bought it. The price was a little more than a year's salary as a rewrite man.

Elinor's monogram was placed inside, free of charge, I think. On Christmas morning, there was no gift under the tree for my wife. She said nothing. I said nothing. The children said nothing. When we had opened all the other gifts, I snapped my fingers in the manner of a forgetful man and said: "Oh yes. There is a package for you."

Gayle and Ginny got it for their mother. She knew, before it was opened. She tried to untie it and the tears started and she said: "I'm all fingers." The girls finished the job, and when Elinor withdrew the coat in both hands she rubbed it against a tear-stained cheek and murmured: "Beautiful. Beautiful. It's so beautiful."

I said: "I'll bet you a nickel you won't wear it ten times." She paid no attention. My mother-in-law Maggy looked at the coat and she made a big oh with her mouth and her china blue eyes popped. Elinor held it up and then, almost bashfully, she slipped her arms slowly into the sleeves.

We had a big mirror in the living room. Under the coat, she had a housedress, but it didn't matter. She turned this way and that, and she and Maggy agreed that the length was fine, but that the sleeves would have to come up a little. "Just a trifle," they said.

She was proud of that coat. She wore it once or twice to my folk's house, and once or twice to her cousin Agnes' house, and then it went into the hall closet. In the late Spring, it went to the furrier's; in the autumn, it came out. If she wore the coat a dozen times, it is a surprise to me.

Wearing it didn't seem to be as important as having it. The mink was gorgeous, dark and real and it rippled with lights when she wore it. Then it went into the closet and, when she passed away, I took it out on its hanger and shook it. As a symbol, the coat was an ironic mockery.

Gayle and I talked it over and we agreed that it should go to Virginia Lee. We gave it to her in an offhand way and said that mommy would want her to have it. At the age of 21, Ginny had her own mink coat.

That was almost three years ago. I've seen her wear it once. . .

The Porpoise As A Naval Weapon

United States Navy planners haven't introduced it to the public yet, but along with their Polaris missile-equipped submarines and nuclear-powered fleet, the sea arm of Uncle Sam's military might has a new secret weapon which could prove more valuable than all the others. In its China Lake, Calif., naval ordnance test station, the Navy is testing its newest discovery.

If naval expectations are met, the new weapon will make the frogman obsolete. It will become the Navy's underwater eyes, tracing enemy harbor installations, mine layouts and shipping. It will also be an invaluable underwater carrier, transporting mines to the vicinity of enemy shipping, directing torpedoes toward their objectives and otherwise performing dangerous and deadly naval operations.

It is capable of traveling up to 40 knots, is too small to be noticed on radar and has a built-in sonar which permits it to navigate through obstacles.

The secret weapon is the porpoise. Naval strategists are fascinated by the speed and intelligence of this playful water mammal. It has proved itself capable of performing difficult feats by command, it is faithful to its master and it asks for little in return but an extra ration of fish. Scientists at the station are interested in more than the porpoise's abilities as an underwater saboteur.

They want to know why the porpoise can outswim most fish and outdistance manmade water travelers. Instruments strapped to test porpoises will reveal whether the layer of blood vessels under the skin act as a heat agent to separate the water and whether there is anything to theories that the porpoise's skin ripples as it glides through the water and thus eliminates the tiny friction bubbles produced by most water vehicles.

From these tests may come new underwater weapons with heated noses and pliable skins to reduce friction and increase speed. And pools of trained porpoises may accompany warships of the future, not as entertainment for the troops but as a vital reconnaissance and demolition team of a formidable defense system.

"Is the Congressman from Massachusetts insinuating that I leaked that story?" shouted Democrat Rooney, jumping to his feet and pounding the committee table furiously.

"I'm not insinuating anything or accusing anyone," countered Conte. "But if the shoe fits, the gentleman may wear it."

"Just a minute—just a minute," exclaimed Rooney, continuing to pound the table. "I don't have to listen to this—"

Colleagues finally calmed him down.

Note — The Democrat who fought hardest in committee against "drastically slashing foreign aid in these troubled times" was Rep. Dan Flood of Pennsylvania. He was joined by Democrats Sid Yates and George Shipley of Illinois in opposing the $790 million cut. All other Democrats, including Chairman Cannon, voted for the big cut. Five Republicans—Ben Jensen (Iowa), Carl Andersen (Minn.), Walter Horan (Wash.), Charles Jonas (N. Car.), and Phil Weaver (Neb.) also deserted Eisenhower in voting for the $790 million slash. In the final vote on the House floor $200 million of this was finally restored.

Justice Douglas' Criticism Of Supreme Court

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — There is a kind of quiz that appears in some newspapers, in which on one page it is asked: "Who said this?" then the answer is given on another page.

Well, who is the author of the following:

"Yet important as these civil rights are, it will not do to sacrifice other civil rights in order to protect them. We live and work under a Constitution. The temptation of many men of goodwill is to cut corners, take short cuts, and reach the desired end regardless of the means. Worthy as I think the ends are which the Civil Rights Commission advances in these cases, I think the particular means used are unconstitutional."

Was the foregoing comment expressed by some critic who feels that the desegregation decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in 1954 ignored the rights of the states to control their school systems? Was it written by someone who, like this correspondent, questioned the legality of the "sit-in" demonstrations at the lunch counters in the South only to hear the Rev. Martin Luther King say on television that, while it may be a violation of local law to trespass on premises in which there is a lunchroom and stay there demanding service, the end morally justifies the means?

The answer is that the paragraph quoted above comes from the pen of Justice William O. Douglas of the Supreme Court of the United States this week in a dissenting opinion in which he and justice Hugo Black announced their differences with the other seven Justices of the Court.

The issue concerned the refusal of registrars in the South, accused of voting-law violations, to testify before the Civil Rights Commission when they were denied copies of the charges against them and were not permitted to confront or cross-examine those making the charges. The commission was given by Congress certain powers of investigation, including the right to subpoena witnesses, and the commission's procedure had been to deny to such witnesses the right to confront and cross-examine other witnesses who, by their testimony, might seek to damage them. The Supreme Court's majority held this week that the commission's hearing was just an "investigation" to get the facts and not to prosecute anybody, so the "due process" safeguards are not necessary, particularly as the testimony could be taken in secret.

It will be recalled that last year the Supreme Court had a difficult time with the same issue when security clearances in defense plants were involved. The Court said then that, unless specifically authorized by the President or Congress, a government department cannot deprive a man of his job "in a proceeding in which he was not afforded the safeguards of confrontation and cross-examination."

But now the majority of the Court has apparently reversed itself by insisting that hearings of the Civil Rights Commission are simply "investigations" by an executive agency and do not have anything to do with a judicial proceeding and that there are adequate safeguards anyway. Justice Douglas, however, doesn't accept this rationalization. He says:

"The procedure seems to me patently unconstitutional whether the hearing is public or secret. Under the commission's rules the accused is deprived of the right to notice of the charges against him and the opportunity of cross-examination. . . . and even if the commission were inclined in a particular case to protect the accused from the opprobrium likely to flow from the testimony of individual witnesses against him by holding secret sessions, this would be little comfort after the commission's findings, based on such untested evidence, were publicized across the nation."

Justice Douglas insists that the Civil Rights Commission is not an arm of Congress but is an arm of the Executive and that the only way the Chief Executive may move against a person accused of crime and deny him the right of cross-examination is by a grand jury proceeding. He adds that the instant case is "a device to expose people as suspects or criminals," and he says of the Supreme Court Justices themselves that "personal preference, not reason, seems to be controlling." Here is the most severe criticism that Justice Douglas wrote about the inconsistencies of his fellow Justices on the Supreme Court as well as judges generally:

"Yet one who tries to rationalize the cases on cold logic or reason fails. The answer turns on the personal predilections of the judge; and the louder the denial the more evident it is that emotion rather than reason dictates the answer. This is a serious price to pay for adopting a free-wheeling concept of due process, rather than confining it to the procedures and devices enumerated in the Constitution itself. . . .

"We look to the Constitution — not to the personal predilections of the judges — to see what is permissible. Since summoning an accused by the government to explain or justify his conduct, that is charged as a crime, may be done only in one way (by grand jury proceedings), I would require a Constitutional Amendment before it can be done in a different way."

This echoes the demand of many citizens who felt in 1954 that reversal of a long-time precedent by the Supreme Court was wrong and that the "law of the land" should be changed after such a long lapse of time only by a Constitutional amendment.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

NIXON AD LIBS—Vice President Richard M. Nixon is going to make greater use of the informal, impromptu kind of speech as his campaign for the Presidency picks up steam.

As other politicians before him, Nixon has discovered that he seems to get through to his audiences much more effectively when ad-libbing. It increases the warmth and sincerity of his approach to the voters.

Nixon says he'd like to throw all his set speeches away, but that is impossible, of course. In the first place, some of the things Nixon or any candidate must discuss, particularly foreign and defense policy, have to be stated in carefully chosen words in order not to create an inadvertent international incident.

Secondly, Nixon's enemies will be looking for the slip of the tongue which is inevitable in these unprepared remarks, to attack him. However, Nixon will try to talk in an unprepared, flowing manner, perhaps memorizing some key thoughts and phrases on the delicate issues he plans to discuss.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

At a party, the woman with the mink coat is the one who will not hang it up in the hall closet on the way in. She must wear it into the living room — no matter how many times the guests have seen it — and she says her devine hellos to one and all with the coat open, one hand on a hip so that the lining shows a little.

The mink coat has, for many years, been the badge of success. It is to the woman what v.p. on an office door is to a man. I have seen them worn on the hottest nights on Collins Avenue in Miami Beach, on the Sunset Strip in Los Angeles, at The Sands in Vegas, along The Strand in London (although not so many as elsewhere) and in Rome.

It is ironic that a woman who dreads being seen in the same gown twice, will wear the same coat a hundred times and will flaunt it with cruelty at her less fortunate sisters. One of the devices she uses is to treat the coat with disdain — as though there were more where that came from. These women take the coat off, eventually, and throw it across a chair or on the floor.

The Bishop family got minkish in 1955. About a month before Christmas, I said to Elinor: "What would you like for Christmas?" I knew the answer. "Nothing. Send me a nice card." She said this every year. If I had followed her suggestion, I'd have been strangled in my sleep.

The trick was to keep asking. At last she allowed herself to be jammed into a corner. Then she had me where she wanted me. "If you want to play it big," she said, "a mink coat would be nice." Then, before I could answer, she said: "Of course that's crazy. They cost a fortune — I mean, a good one costs a lot — and I know you wouldn't want me to have something that looked like a rusty rabbit — oh, forget it. It's crazy."

So Gayle and I went to buy a mink coat. A man in an elegant office told us to be seated and, in a few minutes, lovely girls walked through wearing mink coats closed. They opened the buttons, smiled, stuck their hands in the deep pockets, turned this way and that, and left. This went on for some time. Gayle and I took a vote. We knew which one we liked. We bought it. The price was a little more than a year's salary as a rewrite man.

Elinor's monogram was placed inside, free of charge, I think. On Christmas morning, there was no gift under the tree for my wife. She said nothing. I said nothing. The children said nothing. When we had opened all the other gifts, I snapped my fingers in the manner of a forgetful man and said: "Oh yes. There is a package for you."

Gayle and Ginny got it for their mother. She knew, before it was opened. She tried to untie it and the tears started and she said: "I'm all fingers." The girls finished the job, and when Elinor withdrew the coat in both hands she rubbed it against a tear-stained cheek and murmured: "Beautiful. Beautiful. It's so beautiful."

I said: "I'll bet you a nickel you won't wear it ten times." She paid no attention. My mother-in-law Maggy looked at the coat and she made a big oh with her mouth and her china blue eyes popped. Elinor held it up and then, almost bashfully, she slipped her arms slowly into the sleeves.

We had a big mirror in the living room. Under the coat, she had a housedress, but it didn't matter. She turned this way and that, and she and Maggy agreed that the length was fine, but that the sleeves would have to come up a little. "Just a trifle," they said.

She was proud of that coat. She wore it once or twice to my folk's house, and once or twice to her cousin Agnes' house, and then it went into the hall closet. In the late Spring, it went to the furrier's; in the autumn, it came out. If she wore the coat a dozen times, it is a surprise to me.

Wearing it didn't seem to be as important as having it. The mink was gorgeous, dark and real and it rippled with lights when she wore it. Then it went into the closet and, when she passed away, I took it out on its hanger and shook it. As a symbol, the coat was an ironic mockery.

Gayle and I talked it over and we agreed that it should go to Virginia Lee. We gave it to her in an offhand way and said that mommy would want her to have it. At the age of 21, Ginny had her own mink coat.

That was almost three years ago. I've seen her wear it once. . .

Why Cleaner Air Is A Community Problem

By Dr. Theod R. Van Dellen

The average city dweller has lungs that are dirty gray in appearance and dotted with hundreds of black spots along the air passageways. The lungs of a farmer or sailor are cleaner, whereas those of a coal miner are darker. The infant, on the other hand, has lungs that are as pink and clean as his complexion.

We like to think that Mother Nature expected us to breathe pure air consisting mainly of oxygen, nitrogen, and argon. But she predicted that the air might be polluted because the lungs come equipped with a self-cleansing mechanism plus a method of handling large particles of dust, sand, and dirt.

Most of the inhaled dust irritates the bronchi, which in turn secretes mucus. This mixture is then eliminated as sputum. The remaining particles are absorbed by the lungs and deposited in the tissues where they stay. These are the black spots referred to previously.

Quartz dust is absorbed, too, but irritates lung tissue, producing scars. This is serious, especially among sand-blasters and hard-rock miners who are not protected and who have inhaled the dust for many years. The lungs are overloaded with scar tissue and shortness of breath ensues when they fail to expand.

Most of us do well despite the dirt we inhale. The lungs get a bit dirty but this doesn't show. The irritation is annoying when it contributes to cough or asthma. But air pollution cannot be taken lightly because it may contribute to the development of lung cancer.

Nowadays the air also includes many poisonous gases and vapors. The exhausts from automobiles, for example, emit almost 200 different fumes. Cleaner air is a community project that deserves your attention.

TOMORROW: Taking the temperature.

LUNG COLLAPSE

H. L. G. writes: How long does it take to recuperate from a collapsed lung?

REPLY

The length of time depends upon why the lung collapsed. It might take months if tuberculosis is responsible or less than three weeks should the cause be a blowout of a harmless little bleb along the edge of the lung.

RUMORS ABOUT SALT

T. C. writes: I've heard many claims that the use of salt causes high blood pressure and hardening of the arteries. Is this factual or merely hearsay?

REPLY

Salt aggravates high blood pressure and dropsy after they occur but does not cause these disorders.

TOO MUCH COPPER

A. C. writes: What would cause too much copper in the blood?

REPLY

A high absorption of copper by the intestinal tract. The body usually absorbs what it needs from the foods consumed. But in Wilson's disease—which is rare—there is a greater absorption of copper. As a result, the concentration of this mineral is increased tenfold in the liver, brain, and other tissues.

SWELLING AFTER INJURY

M. J. writes: Why does bruised flesh swell?

REPLY

Because blood or serum flows into the injured area.

ORANGE JUICE ASH

J. N. T. writes: To settle a bet, tell us whether fresh orange gives an acid or an alkali ash.

REPLY

Orange juice contains citric acid but it does not contribute to acidity because the acid radical is used up by oxidation.

APPETITE SUPPRESSANTS

Mrs. L. E. writes: Is there a pill I can take to stop me from eating too much?

REPLY

There are many pills on the market that are touted as appetite suppressants. They help some but all too often the effect wears off after a few weeks of usage.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of diseases will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

A well-broken-in husband clucked his tongue over a financial item in his evening paper. "Land's sake!" he told his wife. "American Tel and Tel made almost a billion dollars in 1959." "Could be," disparaged his wife, "but I wonder if they're REALLY happy!"

A gent whose capacity for hard liquor was nowhere near as great as he thought it was tended to grow more boastful with each successive slug. A scornful competitor tagged him as "the first saleman to become a billionaire by striking bourbon."

A census taker was calling on a rather sporty looking housewife when the maid arrived with a trayful of double martinis. "Have one," suggested the housewife genially. "In fact, have two—or three—or six. I usually do myself."

"Okay," beamed the visitor. "You are about to see a girl take leave of her census."

Try Baked Spiced Cake With A Pot Of Tea

The very split second you open a kitchen door and a waft of freshly baked spiced cake, bread or cookies reaches your sense of smell, you think "Boy! Could I use a cup of tea right now!" Then you conjure up in your mind a few moments of relaxation, enjoying a nice hot cup of tea, a slice of freshly baked spiced sweet of some kind, and a few social moments with friends or neighbors.

All the secrets of how to win friends and influence people were not included in the book by the same title. A cup of tea, when properly brewed, can do almost as much for your ego and reputation as any of the formulae divulged in the book. Actually, there's no secret to making a good cup of tea. All it needs is (1) water that's boiling so rapidly it looks like a stormy sea, (2) enough tea (1 teabag or 1 teaspoonful of tea per cup) and (3) a 3-5 minute brewing period to give the leaves plenty of time to release their flavor, and ability to relieve fatigue, give you a lift— or generally make you feel at peace with the world.

The recipe for the spicy tea bread we have to offer today has a secret ingredient. When you learn what it is, you may say to yourself ... "What won't they think of next?" But— when you taste it, you'll say ... "Whatever it is—I'm glad they thought of it!" The secret ingredient — canned yams!

LOUISIANA YAM BREAD
(Makes 1 9x5x3" loaf)

- ⅓ cup shortening
- ⅓ cup firmly packed brown sugar
- 3 eggs, well-beaten
- 1 can (1 lb.) Louisiana yams, drained, mashed
- 3 tablespoons milk
- 1½ teaspoons lemon juice
- 3 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 2 tablespoons baking powder
- ¾ cup chopped walnuts
- ⅓ cup chopped glace cherries
- ⅓ cup chopped pitted dates

Cream shortening; add sugar and beat until light and fluffy. Add eggs, yams, milk and lemon juice; beat well. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together; add sifted ingredients, walnuts, cherries and dates to yam mixture. Mix only until ingredients are combined. Turn into greased 9x5x3-inch loaf pan and bake in moderate oven 350° F 1 hour and 15 minutes or until cake tastes done. Frost and garnish with additional cherries.

Egg Foo Yong

1 cup coarsely chopped cooked chicken or turkey
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 can (1 lb) bean sprouts, drained (reserve juice for sauce)
½ cup chopped onion
½ cup finely chopped celery
1 tablespoon finely chopped green pepper or parsley
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon soy sauce
4 eggs, slightly beaten
Salad oil for frying, at least ½-inch deep

Brown chicken or turkey lightly in butter or margarine. Add bean sprouts, onion, celery and green pepper or parsley. Cover and cook about 5 minutes until onion is transparent. (There should be little or no liquid left in pan.) Cool slightly. Add salt and soy sauce to eggs; beat with fork until well blended. Combine cooled meat-vegetable and egg mixtures. Spoon about ¼ of mixture into moderately hot oil, spreading to form a cake 5-inch in diameter. Any of the egg mixture that runs out can be quickly pushed back to the cake. Cook until brown, about 4 minutes on each side, carefully turning once with a pancake turner and fork. Drain and serve with or without sauce. Makes four 5-inch cakes.

SAUCE

1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 teaspoon sugar
1 cup juice from canned bean sprouts
1 tablespoon soy sauce

Blend cornstarch, sugar and juice. Cook stirring constantly until clear and uniformly thickened. Add soy sauce; serve hot with Egg Foo Yong. Makes 1 cup sauce.

Television and Radio

Zulli Is Back Again

Floyd Zulli is the man who catapulted Stendhal to fame. Stendhal had some small repute when Zulli first talked him up on his first "Sunrise Semester" 2½ years ago but his book "The Red And The Black" had never sold so well before or since. "Sunrise Semester" also catapulted Zulli to heights not ordinarily dreamed of by New York University professors, which is what Zulli is.

Zulli is back again this summer on radio, again pushing literature in a series of lectures called "A Century Of The Novel —from Goethe to Huxley" on WCBS (10:05 p. m. to 10:30 Wednesdays) and the other day he was asked how he felt about television teaching.

"I said something then and I'll say it now. Educational television is better than no education at all. Would you like to get all your education on television? I wouldn't. Not at all. Television was an experiment and it had to be done. On radio, I'm on at 10 in the evening and it's a great difference. People out riding in cars, maybe even cab drivers, might just switch it on and they'll either think I'm crazy or interesting. I'm excited about this."

Zulli opened with a lecture on "The Sorrows of Young Werther" by Goethe. Through the summer he'll be talking about such books as "Fathers and Sons" by Turgenev, "Victory" by Conrad, "The Ambassadors" by Henry James, "Antic Hay" by Huxley and "Winesburg, Ohio" by Sherwood Anderson.

"When the television thing broke, I didn't do anything in front of the camera that I didn't do in my classrooms. I usually lecture cross-legged on my desk. I use my hands as a means of communication." He glowered. "I am not nor have I ever been a frustrated actor. I didn't even go out for the drama society in college. When the critics called me a frustrated actor, I was first amused, then infuriated, and now I'm just amused again.

"In radio, there's nothing but the voice so they can't say I'm dramatizing. My director is the only one I can impress and I can't put on an act in front of him—he knows as much as I do.

"When the television thing was over, I was very glad to get back to my classroom. I thought the thing was dead—interesting but over. Then Westinghouse asked me to go on in Boston. I did. Not because I was struck by my own voice—as a matter of fact, it drives me crazy—but it's just I like to share the basic primitive thing that happens to me when I see a book."

What did he think of his TV students as students? "Well, I found that the listeners who took the course for credit were either very poor or very good. There didn't seem to be an in-between. I gave a lot of A' and B's and a lot of D' and F's. Couldn't strike an in-between."

Using the great mediums of radio and television for teaching is a delicate business, he feels. "Basically, I'm a teacher. If you want to ham it up, you can go to Hollywood. But if you want to be a teacher, you'd better know what you're doing or you'll lose the respect of your colleagues and your college. No college wants a charlatan to get publicity for them. I have to walk a very thin line. I make no effort to talk down or to give the stuff sugar coated."

But Zulli is not at all academic in thinking. He's got out of the classroom and into the public arena--something that almost never happens to teachers—just long enough to exert a little influence where he thinks it most needed.

"Book reviewers make me mad," he'll tell you. "They think a classic is sacrosanct. The label 'classic' sometimes is the kiss of death. Dostoevsky wasn't worrying about writing a classic. He wrote what he had to and he was busy living. So was Balzac. He was busy chasing women — not worrying about whether he was writing a classic.

"And I say this sort of thing on the air. If it catches on, I'd like a weekly series to say what's on my mind. I'd tell the beatniks to grow up. I'd pan Tennessee Williams. I can range from 'The Divine Comedy' to where Leon Uris made a mistake in 'Exodus' to Tennessee Williams and his hot cats on the roof! They may be truthful but I don't want to spend my life with them. There is nothing so resilient as the human spirit. It refuses to be obsessed and it refuses to see only doom and gloom. Nobody who spends an afternoon with his psychoanalyst is going to write literature I want to read."

How about the television babies who were now in college? "For the most part, television has helped them. They are more aware," said Professor Zulli.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	2 ♣	2 ♥	Pass
3 ♥	Pass	4 ♥	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Jack of ♣

A doctrine like "lead through strength and up to weakness," while sound as a general principle, must be adapted to each individual situation. Observe today's hand.

The bidding was normal and, against the final contract of four hearts, West led the jack of clubs. The king came up from dummy and East cashed two tricks in that suit. Observing the weakness in dummy, East continued with the jack of diamonds. The queen went to the ace and West returned the suit, driving out the king. Since declarer's only chance was the establishment of the spade suit, the ace and king were cashed and the third round ruffed. Luck was with declarer when the suit broke. Three rounds of trumps were played next, winding up in dummy, permitting South to cash the two good spades upon which the club and diamond losers were parked in fulfilment of the contract.

East felt he had done his duty, but in fact he had lost an opportunity for a neat defensive play. More important than leading through strength is the general proposition that dummy's entries should be driven out when it contains a long suit that may become established. The only entry for the spades is the third trump in dummy. If dummy is forced to trump a club early, the high hearts will not provide a late entry if West has as many as three small trumps. The winning play at trick three is the ten of clubs. This must be ruffed in the North hand and the spade suit cannot be brought in.

How does East know that declarer has another club? Very simple. If South had only two clubs, West would originally have had three, in which case his proper opening would not have been the highest of his partner's suit, but a low card.

Where Success Comes From

Failure comes from tension, "which 9 times out of 10 is based on memory of past failures". . . HOLLYWOOD

By Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—What news for teenagers! Their favorite, Paul Anka, the 18-year-old composer-singer, is going to make a movie. He'll have one of the top roles in "Look in Any Window" for which Jack Cassidy was signed a few days ago. Paul plays a strictly dramatic role, but he'll compose and sing the title tune.

His flock of enthusiastic female followers couldn't bear it if he didn't sing at least one tune, so William Alland and Larry Mascott (of "Race for Space" fame) who will produce and direct, have arranged for the musical number. Paul gets here next month, and all of Hollywood is looking forward to meeting him.

The enthusiasm of Joe Levine for our motion picture business never lags. After talking to him an hour he gave me enough news to fill three columns. I must say some of this exuberance rubs off.

Joe thinks his most exciting news is tieing up Steve (Hercules) Reeves for three movies. Steve is now finishing "Morgan, the Pirate" in Rome with Andre de Toth directing.

Then on July 1 Steve stars in "The Thief of Baghdad." In this Reeves gets his first American leading lady in Pier Angeli with American director Arthur Lubin to guide them.

In Steve's third he steps from his "Hercules" type character into "The Walls of Jericho," a religious fantasy which MGM is releasing.

If these new ventures make the money for Levine that "Hercules" brought into the boxoffice and "Hercules, Unchained" is expected to earn, Joe'll spend most of his time counting his loot.

Don't get the idea that because Roger Moore joins the "Maverick" TV family this fall that he is replacing Jim Garner. It's true that Garner and Warner Bros. are farther apart than ever in their contract battle. But Jim's part in "Maverick" is being left open—the part Moore takes on being "Beau" Maverick, a cousin of the Maverick boys from Boston.

If you want my fine interpretation of this maneuvering, I think Roger Moore will be given a build up in the popular series just "in case" Garner's bolt is permanent. But if Jim returns—he has his old role waiting. Meanwhile, Moore goes into still another Warner movie in "Gold of the Seven Saints." He really pleased his bosses in "Rachel Cade."

Robert Stack, a very nervous young man, arrived at the Emmy awards with his lovely wife Rosemarie in the family Jaguar. They departed, not only with the coveted Emmy clutched to Bob's heart, but riding in a new green Mercedes-Benz. Immediately following the telecast, Desi Arnaz took Bob to the parking lot and pointing to the Mercedes, said, "That is a gift for you—and you were to get it whether you won or lost for 'The Untouchables'."

One reason for Bob's extreme nervousness was that he had been equally close to a movie Oscar several years ago for "Written on the Wind"—and lost it at the awards despite the predictions he had it won!

Another pleasant aftermath for Bob was the surprise party at Romanoff's Sandy Cummings, vice president of the ABC network, gave in Bob's honor.

"The king is dead, long live the king," isn't said in vain. Before Monday night Ingemar Johansson was the Swedish heavyweight champion of the world and was an 8-5 favorite to win the bout against challenger Floyd Patterson. Now that Ingemar has been defeated there may be very few motion picture offers coming his way. That's life.

However, Ingo can still have his caviar to eat if he likes caviar and he won't have to go to the poor farm, because he and Patterson split a terrific purse and

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN: We are a group of girls who work in a large Chicago Loop office. There is one among us who defies description. She is so unkempt and sloppy that you just cannot believe a career girl would go around like this.

The woman doesn't wear stockings from April through September. When it rains she has mud on her legs for weeks at a time. Her clothes look as if they were picked up off the closet floor. Her hair is a tangled mess of knots and snarls.

She's an eyesore in our lovely office and we don't know what to do about it. There's no firing her because she has a great deal of seniority and her work is pretty fair. What shall we do?
—CO-WORKERS

DEAR CO-WORKERS: The most mature and gentle woman in the office should have a heart-to-heart talk with the "eyesore" and lay it on the line in unmistakable language.

DEAR ANN: I've failed completely to get through to my husband. Maybe if you print this letter it will do some good.

About a year ago we hired a free-lance contractor to make some improvements on our home. The work was third-rate and most of the time the hired men didn't show up so the contractor came himself. He knew less than the morons he sent as "skilled workers."

After three months of putting up with amateur wrokmanship my husband literally threw him out of the house and hired a first-rate contractor to re-do the botched job and finish the place. Unfortunately, we had paid the first man a chunk of money in advance, which was like throwing it in the sewer.

My husband can't get over his anger at being taken in by a cheap crook. It has made him almost crazy. He's determined to get even by phoning this man at his home at all hours of the day and night — shrieking and cursing at whomever is on the other end of the line. Several times he has yelled at the man's wife and kids.

I keep telling him his behavior is childish and it is not THEIR fault. He says he doesn't give a darn, the whole family is going to suffer. Please, Ann, say something.—GIVING UP

DEAR GIVING: Your husband's behavior is more than childish — it's irrational. The people he phones have written him off as a loon. He's not hurting them, he's hurting himself.

Save your pipes and send him to a head doctor where he can articulate his feelings of hate and get this poison out of his system.

DEAR ANN: You hear from many wives who cry all over themselves because their husbands run around. Here's a new twist for your column. I think it would do a lot of these cheating husbands good to know that ALL wives are not as dumb as they look. It might also be good for the "other woman" to know that a cheater is usually a liar, as well.

I'm married to a handsome heel who has made a hobby of collecting women for the past 15 years. The older the dirty dog gets, the more attractive he becomes. Women go crazy over him and leave their husbands. Then he gets scared and comes running home to me.

I've prayed a dozen times that the next dizzy dame who gets mixed up with him will keep him—but no such luck. He comes crawling back like a naughty puppy. I could live without him very well, but apparently he can't live without me.—STUCK

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	2 ♣	2 ♥	Pass
3 ♥	Pass	4 ♥	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Jack of ♣

A doctrine like "lead through strength and up to weakness," while sound as a general principle, must be adapted to each individual situation. Observe today's hand.

The bidding was normal and, against the final contract of four hearts, West led the jack of clubs. The king came up from dummy and East cashed two tricks in that suit. Observing the weakness in dummy, East continued with the jack of diamonds. The queen went to the ace and West returned the suit, driving out the king. Since declarer's only chance was the establishment of the spade suit, the ace and king were cashed and the third round ruffed. Luck was with declarer when the suit broke. Three rounds of trumps were played next, winding up in dummy, permitting South to cash the two good spades upon which the club and diamond losers were parked in fulfilment of the contract.

East felt he had done his duty, but in fact he had lost an opportunity for a neat defensive play. More important than leading through strength is the general proposition that dummy's entries should be driven out when it contains a long suit that may become established. The only entry for the spades is the third trump in dummy. If dummy is forced to trump a club early, the high hearts will not provide a late entry if West has as many as three small trumps. The winning play at trick three is the ten of clubs. This must be ruffed in the North hand and the spade suit cannot be brought in.

How does East know that declarer has another club? Very simple. If South had only two clubs, West would originally have had three, in which case his proper opening would not have been the highest of his partner's suit, but a low card.

Where Success Comes From

Failure comes from tension, "which 9 times out of 10 is based on memory of past failures". . . HOLLYWOOD

By Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—What news for teenagers! Their favorite, Paul Anka, the 18-year-old composer-singer, is going to make a movie. He'll have one of the top roles in "Look in Any Window" for which Jack Cassidy was signed a few days ago. Paul plays a strictly dramatic role, but he'll compose and sing the title tune.

His flock of enthusiastic female followers couldn't bear it if he didn't sing at least one tune, so William Alland and Larry Mascott (of "Race for Space" fame) who will produce and direct, have arranged for the musical number. Paul gets here next month, and all of Hollywood is looking forward to meeting him.

The enthusiasm of Joe Levine for our motion picture business never lags. After talking to him an hour he gave me enough news to fill three columns. I must say some of this exuberance rubs off.

Joe thinks his most exciting news is tieing up Steve (Hercules) Reeves for three movies. Steve is now finishing "Morgan, the Pirate" in Rome with Andre de Toth directing.

Then on July 1 Steve stars in "The Thief of Baghdad." In this Reeves gets his first American leading lady in Pier Angeli with American director Arthur Lubin to guide them.

In Steve's third he steps from his "Hercules" type character into "The Walls of Jericho," a religious fantasy which MGM is releasing.

If these new ventures make the money for Levine that "Hercules" brought into the boxoffice and "Hercules, Unchained" is expected to earn, Joe'll spend most of his time counting his loot.

Don't get the idea that because Roger Moore joins the "Maverick" TV family this fall that he is replacing Jim Garner. It's true that Garner and Warner Bros. are farther apart than ever in their contract battle. But Jim's part in "Maverick" is being left open—the part Moore takes on being "Beau" Maverick, a cousin of the Maverick boys from Boston.

If you want my fine interpretation of this maneuvering, I think Roger Moore will be given a build up in the popular series just "in case" Garner's bolt is permanent. But if Jim returns—he has his old role waiting. Meanwhile, Moore goes into still another Warner movie in "Gold of the Seven Saints." He really pleased his bosses in "Rachel Cade."

Robert Stack, a very nervous young man, arrived at the Emmy awards with his lovely wife Rosemarie in the family Jaguar. They departed, not only with the coveted Emmy clutched to Bob's heart, but riding in a new green Mercedes-Benz. Immediately following the telecast, Desi Arnaz took Bob to the parking lot and pointing to the Mercedes, said, "That is a gift for you—and you were to get it whether you won or lost for 'The Untouchables'."

One reason for Bob's extreme nervousness was that he had been equally close to a movie Oscar several years ago for "Written on the Wind"—and lost it at the awards despite the predictions he had it won!

Another pleasant aftermath for Bob was the surprise party at Romanoff's Sandy Cummings, vice president of the ABC network, gave in Bob's honor.

"The king is dead, long live the king," isn't said in vain. Before Monday night Ingemar Johansson was the Swedish heavyweight champion of the world and was an 8-5 favorite to win the bout against challenger Floyd Patterson. Now that Ingemar has been defeated there may be very few motion picture offers coming his way. That's life.

However, Ingo can still have his caviar to eat if he likes caviar and he won't have to go to the poor farm, because he and Patterson split a terrific purse and

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN: We are a group of girls who work in a large Chicago Loop office. There is one among us who defies description. She is so unkempt and sloppy that you just cannot believe a career girl would go around like this.

The woman doesn't wear stockings from April through September. When it rains she has mud on her legs for weeks at a time. Her clothes look as if they were picked up off the closet floor. Her hair is a tangled mess of knots and snarls.

She's an eyesore in our lovely office and we don't know what to do about it. There's no firing her because she has a great deal of seniority and her work is pretty fair. What shall we do?
—CO-WORKERS

DEAR CO-WORKERS: The most mature and gentle woman in the office should have a heart-to-heart talk with the "eyesore" and lay it on the line in unmistakable language.

DEAR ANN: I've failed completely to get through to my husband. Maybe if you print this letter it will do some good.

About a year ago we hired a free-lance contractor to make some improvements on our home. The work was third-rate and most of the time the hired men didn't show up so the contractor came himself. He knew less than the morons he sent as "skilled workers."

After three months of putting up with amateur wrokmanship my husband literally threw him out of the house and hired a first-rate contractor to re-do the botched job and finish the place. Unfortunately, we had paid the first man a chunk of money in advance, which was like throwing it in the sewer.

My husband can't get over his anger at being taken in by a cheap crook. It has made him almost crazy. He's determined to get even by phoning this man at his home at all hours of the day and night — shrieking and cursing at whomever is on the other end of the line. Several times he has yelled at the man's wife and kids.

I keep telling him his behavior is childish and it is not THEIR fault. He says he doesn't give a darn, the whole family is going to suffer. Please, Ann, say something.—GIVING UP

DEAR GIVING: Your husband's behavior is more than childish — it's irrational. The people he phones have written him off as a loon. He's not hurting them, he's hurting himself.

Save your pipes and send him to a head doctor where he can articulate his feelings of hate and get this poison out of his system.

DEAR ANN: You hear from many wives who cry all over themselves because their husbands run around. Here's a new twist for your column. I think it would do a lot of these cheating husbands good to know that ALL wives are not as dumb as they look. It might also be good for the "other woman" to know that a cheater is usually a liar, as well.

I'm married to a handsome heel who has made a hobby of collecting women for the past 15 years. The older the dirty dog gets, the more attractive he becomes. Women go crazy over him and leave their husbands. Then he gets scared and comes running home to me.

I've prayed a dozen times that the next dizzy dame who gets mixed up with him will keep him—but no such luck. He comes crawling back like a naughty puppy. I could live without him very well, but apparently he can't live without me.—STUCK

To learn the difference between a marriage that "settles down" and one that "gets dull," send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "What To Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Litz McGuire Is Named W.Va. State Auditor

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)— Gov. Underwood Wednesday named Logan Mayor Litz McGuire to serve as West Virginia State auditor, filling the vacancy created by the death of Edgar B. Sims.

McGuire, the Republican nominee for auditor, will serve the unexpired portion of Sims' term, ending next Jan. 15.

McGuire, currently serving his fifth term as mayor, was unopposed in the May 10 primary for GOP nomination for auditor.

Meanwhile, the State Democratic Executive Committee will have to pick someone to replace Sims as the nominee for auditor on the November election ballot.

Sims died Monday at the age of 78 after a long illness. He had served a record 27½ years as State auditor. Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon.

The governor stressed the urgency of filling the auditor's post, explaining that "state government is at a complete standstill; we can't issue a check for anything."

Signatures of the new auditor will be flown to three different manufacturers of check writing machines used by the auditor's office in order that there will be the smallest possible delay in the obtaining of new signature plates.

Litz McGuire Is Named W.Va. State Auditor

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)— Gov. Underwood Wednesday named Logan Mayor Litz McGuire to serve as West Virginia State auditor, filling the vacancy created by the death of Edgar B. Sims.

McGuire, the Republican nominee for auditor, will serve the unexpired portion of Sims' term, ending next Jan. 15.

McGuire, currently serving his fifth term as mayor, was unopposed in the May 10 primary for GOP nomination for auditor.

Meanwhile, the State Democratic Executive Committee will have to pick someone to replace Sims as the nominee for auditor on the November election ballot.

Sims died Monday at the age of 78 after a long illness. He had served a record 27½ years as State auditor. Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon.

The governor stressed the urgency of filling the auditor's post, explaining that "state government is at a complete standstill; we can't issue a check for anything."

Signatures of the new auditor will be flown to three different manufacturers of check writing machines used by the auditor's office in order that there will be the smallest possible delay in the obtaining of new signature plates.

"Capital Beltway" Now Official Name

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's now the "Capital Beltway" — that circumferential highway being built around Washington.

The road originally was designated "Capitol Beltway" — as you spell the name of the buildings in which congress and state legislatures meet — by the Maryland Roads Commission and Virginia Highway Department.

The Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission, which has the last say, decided Wednesday it would be more appropriate to call it "Capital Beltway" — as you spell the word when you refer to the city in which the "capitol" is located.

"Capital Beltway" Now Official Name

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's now the "Capital Beltway" — that circumferential highway being built around Washington.

The road originally was designated "Capitol Beltway" — as you spell the name of the buildings in which congress and state legislatures meet — by the Maryland Roads Commission and Virginia Highway Department.

The Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission, which has the last say, decided Wednesday it would be more appropriate to call it "Capital Beltway" — as you spell the word when you refer to the city in which the "capitol" is located.

Braves Sweep Series With Giants, 8-4

Spahn Posts 272nd Win Of His Career; Mathews Hits Pair

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—The Milwaukee Braves, with Warren Spahn on the mound, completed a four-game series sweep over San Francisco Thursday, 8-4, with the troubled Giants committing four errors to give the Braves six unearned runs.

The Braves scored one run in the fifth to break a 3-3 tie, and then tallied four times in the sixth, when San Francisco fell apart defensively.

Spahn meanwhile picked up win No. 272 of his career and won his first game since gaining a decision in relief June 5. Eddie Mathews hit a pair of two-run homers, the 35th time he has turned the trick in a game to lead all active players.

Mathews' first homer, with Johnny Logan on base, came in the first inning to match a pair of Giant runs in their first frame. His second clout—both off Giant loser Sam Jones—came in the sixth with Logan again on base, to cap the four Milwaukee runs of the inning.

The Braves have now won six in a row for their longest winning streak of the year. They have also won 10 of the last 13. The Giants — with a managerial change from Bill Rigney to Tom Sheehan sandwiched in between—have lost five straight and nine of their last 11.

Giant catcher Bob Schmidt had a solo homer in the fourth inning, and Ed Bressoud hit another homer with no one on base in the ninth.

Jones And Clay Meet At St. Nick

NEW YORK (AP)—An era ends Friday night as Doug Jones, unbeaten New York light heavyweight, meets Von Clay of Philadelphia in a return 10-round main event at the St. Nicholas Arena.

Since the days of Tex Rickard the "Friday night fights" have been a fixture bordering on tradition. First it was the radio broadcasts which lured the rabid fans to their sets. Then television joined radio.

Friday night it ends, at least as far as Friday nights is concerned. When boxing resumes at St. Nicks next October the televising will be resumed, but it will be over the ABC network instead of NBC, and there will be no radio broadcast. And the shows will be Saturday nights.

In their previous meeting March 28 Jones won a decision in one of the more thrilling fights of the season.

Cards Break Bucs' 7-Game String, 3-1

Lead Is Shaved To 2½ Games

PITTSBURGH (UPI) —The St. Louis Cardinals won their first game in five appearances at Forbes Field by scoring two unearned runs in the seventh inning to cool off Pittsburgh, 3-1, Thursday night and shave the Pirates' National League lead to 2½ games.

The defeat snapped Pittsburgh's seven-game winning streak at home. The Milwaukee Braves gained a full game on the Pirates by defeating San Francisco, 8-4, this afternoon.

The Pirates' downfall began after Daryl Spencer opened the seventh by reaching first when Dick Groat fumbled his grounder. The runner moved to second on Bill White's sacrifice and scored on John Glenn's single to break a 1-1 tie.

Then Hal R. Smith singled and Glenn went to third but was caught in a rundown, Smith moving to second. Smith came home after singles by winning pitcher Ronnie Kline and Julian Javier.

Fred Green then relieved Harvey Haddix, who had been bidding for his 100th major league victory but went down to his 84th career defeat instead. Green did a good relief job, retiring the four batters he met, three of them by strikeouts. He was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the eighth and Roy Face finished up for the Pirates.

Kline helped with his bat to win his third game at the expense of his ex-teammates. His first single came when he led off in the sixth and then scored on Curt Flood's 430-foot triple to centre.

The Pirates averted a shutout in the third inning when Don Hoak led off with a double to left and scored on Haddix's single.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Ken Walters hit his seventh homer of the season with two out in the eighth inning Thursday night to lift the Philadelphia Phillies from the National League cellar with a 4-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Maxwell Hits Homer To Beat Yankees, 2-1

Ninth Inning Belt Beats Ryne Duren

DETROIT (AP)—Charlie Maxwell slugged Ryne Duren's second pitch into the upper right field seats leading off in the ninth inning Thursday and gave Detroit a 2-1 decision over the New York Yankees.

The home run was Maxwell's 11th of the season and broke the Tigers' four-game losing streak. It also ended a six-game Yankee winning streak.

Duren, fast-balling ace of the Yankee relief corps, whizzed a called strike past Maxwell, but the second pitch was belt high and Maxwell socked it 10 rows into the upper deck.

Don Mossi survived several scares and picked up his fourth victory. He spaced nine hits.

He and Bob Turley had a tense duel going for seven innings. But Turley was lifted for a pinch batter in the eighth. Gil McDougald batted for Turley and doubled to right center. He scored New York's only run when Hector Lopez lined his third single to center.

Braves Sweep Series With Giants, 8-4

Spahn Posts 272nd Win Of His Career; Mathews Hits Pair

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—The Milwaukee Braves, with Warren Spahn on the mound, completed a four-game series sweep over San Francisco Thursday, 8-4, with the troubled Giants committing four errors to give the Braves six unearned runs.

The Braves scored one run in the fifth to break a 3-3 tie, and then tallied four times in the sixth, when San Francisco fell apart defensively.

Spahn meanwhile picked up win No. 272 of his career and won his first game since gaining a decision in relief June 5. Eddie Mathews hit a pair of two-run homers, the 35th time he has turned the trick in a game to lead all active players.

Mathews' first homer, with Johnny Logan on base, came in the first inning to match a pair of Giant runs in their first frame. His second clout—both off Giant loser Sam Jones—came in the sixth with Logan again on base, to cap the four Milwaukee runs of the inning.

The Braves have now won six in a row for their longest winning streak of the year. They have also won 10 of the last 13. The Giants — with a managerial change from Bill Rigney to Tom Sheehan sandwiched in between—have lost five straight and nine of their last 11.

Giant catcher Bob Schmidt had a solo homer in the fourth inning, and Ed Bressoud hit another homer with no one on base in the ninth.

Jones And Clay Meet At St. Nick

NEW YORK (AP)—An era ends Friday night as Doug Jones, unbeaten New York light heavyweight, meets Von Clay of Philadelphia in a return 10-round main event at the St. Nicholas Arena.

Since the days of Tex Rickard the "Friday night fights" have been a fixture bordering on tradition. First it was the radio broadcasts which lured the rabid fans to their sets. Then television joined radio.

Friday night it ends, at least as far as Friday nights is concerned. When boxing resumes at St. Nicks next October the televising will be resumed, but it will be over the ABC network instead of NBC, and there will be no radio broadcast. And the shows will be Saturday nights.

In their previous meeting March 28 Jones won a decision in one of the more thrilling fights of the season.

Cards Break Bucs' 7-Game String, 3-1

Lead Is Shaved To 2½ Games

PITTSBURGH (UPI) —The St. Louis Cardinals won their first game in five appearances at Forbes Field by scoring two unearned runs in the seventh inning to cool off Pittsburgh, 3-1, Thursday night and shave the Pirates' National League lead to 2½ games.

The defeat snapped Pittsburgh's seven-game winning streak at home. The Milwaukee Braves gained a full game on the Pirates by defeating San Francisco, 8-4, this afternoon.

The Pirates' downfall began after Daryl Spencer opened the seventh by reaching first when Dick Groat fumbled his grounder. The runner moved to second on Bill White's sacrifice and scored on John Glenn's single to break a 1-1 tie.

Then Hal R. Smith singled and Glenn went to third but was caught in a rundown, Smith moving to second. Smith came home after singles by winning pitcher Ronnie Kline and Julian Javier.

Fred Green then relieved Harvey Haddix, who had been bidding for his 100th major league victory but went down to his 84th career defeat instead. Green did a good relief job, retiring the four batters he met, three of them by strikeouts. He was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the eighth and Roy Face finished up for the Pirates.

Kline helped with his bat to win his third game at the expense of his ex-teammates. His first single came when he led off in the sixth and then scored on Curt Flood's 430-foot triple to centre.

The Pirates averted a shutout in the third inning when Don Hoak led off with a double to left and scored on Haddix's single.

Dan Senators Tie Tigers For Lead, Trim Braves, 11-7

Manager Al Manges' Senators tied the Tigers for the leadership of the Dan Division in the Dapper Dan Little League by whipping the Braves yesterday at East Side Field by the score of 11-7.

Raymond Carroll went the route for the Senators and yielded seven hits. Powell and Springer, Braves hurlers, gave up 10 hits and whiffed a total of 12 batsmen.

John Robinson collected three hits, Mike Wilt pounded a triple and single, Eddie Plummer blasted a homer and single, Jim Plummer a double and single and Calvin Lewis delivered a pinch homer in the 6th frame for the Senators. Bruce and Springer smacked a homer and single each to spark the Braves while Kelly, Dick and Powell hammered triples. Dick's sparkling catch of a line drive at third base in the final frame was the fielding highlight.

The Tigers and Senators will play Saturday at 12 noon at Penn Avenue Field.

At Penn Avenue Field yesterday, the Giants walloped the Yankees in a Dapper Division game by the score of 10-3.

Billy Seeders held the Yankees to five hits and all the runs scored against him came in the third on a hit coupled with four errors. It was Seeders second win against no defeats.

Maxwell Hits Homer To Beat Yankees, 2-1

Ninth Inning Belt Beats Ryne Duren

DETROIT (AP)—Charlie Maxwell slugged Ryne Duren's second pitch into the upper right field seats leading off in the ninth inning Thursday and gave Detroit a 2-1 decision over the New York Yankees.

The home run was Maxwell's 11th of the season and broke the Tigers' four-game losing streak. It also ended a six-game Yankee winning streak.

Duren, fast-balling ace of the Yankee relief corps, whizzed a called strike past Maxwell, but the second pitch was belt high and Maxwell socked it 10 rows into the upper deck.

Don Mossi survived several scares and picked up his fourth victory. He spaced nine hits.

He and Bob Turley had a tense duel going for seven innings. But Turley was lifted for a pinch batter in the eighth. Gil McDougald batted for Turley and doubled to right center. He scored New York's only run when Hector Lopez lined his third single to center.

South Africa Leads Canada Cup Matches

Player-Locke's 137 Tops Palmer-Snead

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

PORTMARNOCK, Ireland (AP)—Gary Player, gasping and near collapse from asthmatic spasm, groped around Portmarnock in a record-shattering 65 Thursday.

It sent the ailing South African group into a three-stroke, first-round lead over the favored American team of Arnold Palmer and Sam Snead in the International Canada Cup Golf Matches.

Player's' fantastic seven-under-par round, coupled with a 72 by a doddering, crippled Bobby Locke, gave the South Africans in opening team total of 137, shading the highly rated Yanks, in second place.

Palmer with a 69 and Snead with a 71 made the U.S. total 140.

Player had to take an injection to relieve severe chest congestion before leaving the tee after a half-hour's grace. Locke, nearly killed four months ago in an automobile accident near Capetown, played with only one good eye and on wobbly legs that appeared ready to crumble at any moment.

Palmer, the U.S. Masters and Open champion, fired a 69 despite a show of temperament and frequent squabbles with camera bugs.

Portmarnock's 7,093 yards took a good licking from the world's top professionals in bright sunshine and brought forth trick,y changing winds. Par is 36-36—72.

Behind the South Africans and the Americans came the Belgian team at 141, mainly on Flory Van Donck"s brilliant 68, followed by Ireland and Scotland in a tie at 143, another surprise from Argentina at 144. Wales and Italy deadlocked at 145 and Canada standing alone at 146.

Defending champion Australia was 12 strokes off the torrid pace at 149, after a dismal 73 by Peter Thomson and a 76 by Kel Nagle.

The suave, graying Van Donck, celebrating his 48th birthday Thursday, was second to Player in the individual race with his sharp 68. Then came Palmer at 69 and a pair of 70s for Norman Drew of Ireland and Alfonso Angelini of Italy. Snead was bracketed at 71 with Dai Rees of Wales, Ben Arda of the Philippines, and Francois Saubaber of France.

Mesdames Streit, Cush, Howard 2nd; 59 Golfers Vie

Carding a 78 for the par 78 layout, Miss Barbara Diggs, 21-year-old representative of the Manor Country Club, Washington, D. C., took a five-stroke lead yesterday at the end of the first 18-holes of the tenth annual invitation tournament of the Women's Golf Association at the Cumberland Country Club.

Miss Diggs who won the two-day 36-hole test and a leg on the Old Export Bowl in 1959 with a card of 159, yesterday finished five strokes in the four of three other Washington area players, namely, Mrs. Paul Streit, of Chevy Chase, and Mrs. Frank Cush, and Mrs. Wilson E. Howard, both of the Argyle Country Club. Mrs. Cush, who was runner-up here last year with a score of 163, was the winner of the recent Middle Atlantic championship tournament.

Trailing the three players deadlocked for second place by a single stroke were Miss Jane Schiller, University of Maryland junior from the Green Hills Country Club, Salisbury, Md., and Mrs. Gordon L. Bowie, of the Cumberland Country Club, who shot an opening round 84.

They were followed by Miss Kathryn Diggs, 1959 champion and current leader, and Mrs. Henry Johnson, of the Cumberland Country Club, with 85s.

Mrs. G. William Bibby, Cumberland's top performer in previous invitational tournaments, had an 87 for the first 18 holes, nine strokes off the pace.

Low net scorer for the first day was Mrs. Wilson E. Howard with an 83-11—72.

Fifty-nine players from 15 different clubs started and completed the opening round.

The tournament will be concluded with another 18-hole round, commencing this morning.

LEADERS IN CCC TOURNEY—Miss Barbara Diggs, of the Manor Country Club, Washington, D. C., shown on the left, took a lead of five strokes at the halfway mark in the Cumberland Country Club's tenth annual invitation golf tournament yesterday when she toured the par 71 layout in 78 strokes. Miss Diggs won the 36-hole test last year with 81-78—159 and earned a leg on the Old Export Bowl. The three players shown finished in a deadlock for the runner-up spot yesterday with gross scores of 83. They are, left to right, Mrs. Wilson E. Howard, Argyle Country Club; Mrs. Paul Streit, Chevy Chase, Md., and Mrs. Frank Cush, of the Argyle Country Club, winner of this year's Middle Atlantic Tournament title. The CCC tourney will be concluded today.

Cresaptown's Eagles trimmed the LaVale Orioles, 9-1, at Parkside Field, and the LaVale Maroons routed Wellersburg, 17-2, at the latter place, in Pen-Mar Little League games played yesterday.

Allen Cecil obtained a pair of one-base knocks for the Eagles while Rickey Shuck accounted for two of the Orioles' seven blows.

LaVale's Maroons collected 13 hits at Wellersburg, including a grand slam homer by Gary Nave, a double and three singles by Jim Evans and two safeties by Dave Miltenberger. Larry Dom and Royce O'Baker each hit safely twice and Roger Witt larruped a triple for Wellersburg.

MacKay, Frost Chalk Up Wins At Wimbledon

Gain Round Of 16, Miss Hard Victor

By ROBERT MUSEL

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — Big Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, and Jack Frost of Monterey, Calif., gained the round of 16 in the Wimbledon tennis championships Thursday by slipping and sliding to straight set victories on grass courts made glassy-slick by four different rain showers.

But near the end of the long, dreary day of tennis, 46-year-old Gardnar Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla., failed in his bid to keep pace with the youngsters and was beaten by Australia's Don Candy, 6-4, 7-5, 3-6, 6-2. Mulloy spent his last reserves in winning the third set with flashes of the form he displayed Wednesday in routing Britain's ace, Mike Davies.

Rain Disrupts Play

Play was disrupted so long and so often by rain more than half the matches on the schedule had to be postponed, including a third-rounder involving Earl (Butch) Buchholz of St. Louis, the only other American survivor in men's singles. Buchholz led Bob Mark of Australia, 6-4, 15-13, when play was called because of darkness.

MacKay, plagued by 12 double-faults but making up in part with 10 service aces, downed Sweden's Ulf Schmidt, 6-4, 6-3, 11-9, and Frost eliminated Istvan Gulyas of Hungary, 7-5, 6-4, 6-4.

In women's singles, second-seeded Darlene Hard of Montebello, Calif., Karen Hantze of San Diego, Calif., and Janet Hopps of Seattle all made the round of 16, but a match between Dorothy Head Knode of New York and Christine Truman of Britain was postponed because of darkness.

Miss Hard Wins

Miss Hard defeated 16-year-old Frances Walton of Britain, 6-1, 6-0. Miss Hantze, 17-year-old U.S. junior champion, routed Aline Menot of France, 6-2, 6-0, and Miss Hopps ousted Florence de la Courtie of France, 6-4, 6-1.

Top - seeded Neale Fraser of Australia led the parade of seeded favorites with a 6-4, 6-1, 6-8, 6-3 victory over Russia's 19-year-old Thomas Lejus, slowing his game almost to tap-tap speed to avoid tumbling as so many others did on the slippery courts.

Rod Laver, third-seeded Aussie, defeated Manuel Santana of Spain, 3-6, 6-1, 6-4, 6-4, and fourth-seeded Luis Ayala of Chile won by default from Britain's Billy Mills, who fell hard and was injured with Ayala leading 8-7 in the first set.

Bryan Rites Held

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)—Jimmy Bryan, who won the national race car driving championship three times, was buried Thursday at Greenwood Memorial Park after friends and auto racing colleagues paid final tribute in services at the First Presbyterian Church.

Bryan was just 33 when he died Sunday, 12 seconds after the start of the Langhorne, Pa., 100 miler.

He had been in semi-retirement since winning the 1958 Indianapolis 500 but unsuccessfully defended his brickyard title in 1959 and 1960.

Bryan left his widow, Luella, two daughters, his parents and a sister, all of Phoenix.

North Carolina State's football team will play four night games next fall.

Cleveland Edges Washington, 7-6

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians beat the Washington Senators, 7-6, on an unearned run Thursday to sweep the three-game series.

The winning run was scored off Truman Clevenger, the last of four Washington pitchers, after he had retired the first two batters in the eighth inning. Pinch-hitter Chuck Tanner drew a walk and Jim Perry ran for him. John Temple singled to right field, sending Perry to third, and when Bob Allison made a wild throw to third, Perry went home with the winning run.

The loss gave Clevenger a 1-4 record for the season. The winner was John Briggs, the fourth of five Cleveland pitchers, who now has a 3-1 record, all in relief.

Starter Barry Latman for the Indians was followed to the mound by Gary Bell, Johnny Klippstein, Briggs and Dick Stigman.

Krouse To Play For Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Redskins today traded veteran quarterback Eddie Lebaron to the Dallas Cowboys, newest entry in the National Football League, in return for two future draft choices.

Lebaron was the Redskins' No. 1 quarterback for eight years, but announced his retirement to practice law at the end of last season.

He changed his mind about retiring provided he could be traded to Dallas, since he plans to pursue his legal career in Texas.

The Redskins will receive Dallas' Nos. 1 and 6 choices in the 1961 draft of college players.

In another phase of the trade, the Redskins sent center Frank Kuchta, a former Notre Dame player, to the Cowboys for veteran tackle Ray Krouse, a former Maryland star who played for the past two years with the champion Baltimore Colts. This will be Krouse's 10th year in the NFL.

Krouse went to Dallas earlier this year when the new NFL entry was allowed to purchase three players from each of the other 12 teams.

Staley's Bases Full Walk Breaks 3-3 Tie

CHICAGO (AP) — Relief ace Gerry Staley's bases-loaded walk to pinch batter Bob Boyd in the 11th inning followed by Gene Stephens' sacrifice fly gave the Baltimore Orioles a 5-3 victory over the Chicago White Sox Thursday.

The triumph lifted the second-place Orioles within one-half game of the league-leading New York Yankees who dropped a 2-1 decision at Detroit.

With two out in the ninth and the Sox trailing 3-1, Roy Sievers and Al Smith hit successive home-runs to send the game into extra innings.

Pinch batter Jim Gentile opened the Baltimore 11th with a single to right and after Brooks Robinson sacrificed pinch-runner Al Pilarcik along, Gus Triandos was given an intentional pass. Pinch-batter Clint Courtney was hit by a pitched ball and Boyd drew a walk to break the tie.

Staley was tagged with his third loss against seven victories and reliever Chuck Estrada picked up his seventh triumph against three defeats.

AFL Scores 2nd Legal Victory

OXFORD, Miss. (UPI) — The new American Football League scored another legal victory over the old established National League Thursday when a judge ruled All America Charlie Flowers could play for the Los Angeles Chargers.

Federal District Judge Claude Clayton rejected a lawsuit by the New York Giants of the NFL to prohibit the Mississippi fullback from joining the AFL Chargers.

It was the second triumph this week for the new league. A judge in Los Angeles ruled Monday in a similar suit that former Louisiana State star Billy Cannon was free to play for the Houston Oilers of the AFL rather than the Los Angeles Rams of the NFL.

MacKay, Frost Chalk Up Wins At Wimbledon

By ROBERT MUSEL

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — Big Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, and Jack Frost of Monterey, Calif., gained the round of 16 in the Wimbledon tennis championships Thursday by slipping and sliding to straight set victories on grass courts made glassy-slick by four different rain showers.

But near the end of the long, dreary day of tennis, 46-year-old Gardnar Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla., failed in his bid to keep pace with the youngsters and was beaten by Australia's Don Candy, 6-4, 7-5, 3-6, 6-2. Mulloy spent his last reserves in winning the third set with flashes of the form he displayed Wednesday in routing Britain's ace, Mike Davies.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my dearly beloved husband, John W. (Cutty) Lewis, who died 1 year ago today, June 24, 1959.
Always so true, unselfish and kind.
Few in this world his equal you'll find,
He died as he lived—everyone's friend.
Do not ask me if I miss him,
Often I think I hear his footsteps,
And see his smiling face.
Days of sadness still come over me,
Tears in silence often flow,
Whatever else I fail to do,
I will never fail to think of you.
Memories that we shared together
Will be ours forever and ever.
Sadly missed by his wife,
ROSE V. LEWIS

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my dearly beloved husband, John W. (Cutty) Lewis, who died 1 year ago today, June 24, 1959.
Always so true, unselfish and kind.
Few in this world his equal you'll find.
He died as he lived—everyone's friend.
Do not ask me if I miss him.
Often I think I hear his footsteps,
And see his smiling face.
Days of sadness still come over me,
Tears in silence often flow.
Whatever else I fail to do.
I will never fail to think of you.
Memories that we shared together
Will be ours forever and ever.
Sadly missed by his wife,
ROSE V. LEWIS

Secrets Of Charm

Thoughts For The Thin

Summer is a season just nature-made for gaining weight. Fresh air and exercise to stimulate appetites, relaxed outdoor eating, all the calorie-crammed "coolers" for summertime snacking SHOULD encourage pounds to cling. Why don't they stay on you?

First, let's look at the facts that seem to make you what you are—too thin. Then, we'll see how summer can actually work against you unless you wield willpower, just as your fleshier friends must do in reverse.

You burn up calories easily, too easily. You are a quick and active person by nature, maybe a "bundle of nervous energy." So, increased activity in summer may just make you thinner — without increased food intake.

Your appetite is small. You pick at food slowly, feel full fast. You have fewer hunger pangs to pester you, so food for food's sake holds little attraction. You may even neglect the "basic seven" foods or skip whole meals because of this lack of interest in food. Which means you might miss out on the very elements that combine to calm you down and to build your appetite.

An appetite so sensitive is easily affected—and afflicted still further—by summer's heat and humidity, by the relaxed unscheduled routines typical of vacationtime.

You could burn fewer calories if you slept and rested more. But you are such a busy person, you most likely consider loafing a great waste of time, especially with a whole summer's dividend of more daylight hours.

Are you serious about wanting to gain weight? You should be. Physically and emotionally, your health will improve once you slow down enough to store your nourishment.

Check yourself out first with your physician. If there is any bodily upset or infection that frustrates your ability to gain, he'll find it and find ways to correct it. He may also suggest some dietary supplement that will improve your appetite, and your attitude toward food.

Once he encourages you to eat more, do it! Even if you must force yourself at the start. If you can't eat a lot at one time, eat oftener.

You will probably find it a lot easier to train yourself to love rich desserts than to teach yourself to be lazy. But make yourself learn one important exercise —leaning back in leisure. If ever there was a time to be lazy, summer is the season. More than mere weight, you'll gain soul-soothing perspective.

Senate Passes Beall's Bill For Park On Canal

Sponsor Expects Okay From House

U.S. Senator J. Glenn Beall said yesterday that he is in high hopes of getting his Chesapeake and Ohio Canal National Historical Park bill through the House of Representatives and enacted into law before the adjournment of the 86th Congress.

The Beall bill, S77, was passed by the Senate yesterday afternoon after Senator Beall took the floor and explained the provisions of the bill.

Senator Beall had offered a series of amendments to make the bill acceptable to the House of Representatives. Before passage of the bill, amendments were approved en bloc by the Senate.

No Delay Expected

The senator said that with proper cooperation in the House he hopes to get the bill through without delay.

He said it is his opinion that President Eisenhower will sign the measure, there being nothing in it which is contrary to expressed White House policy.

Senator Beall proposes to work closely with his former colleagues in the House to the end that the measure will get through the House.

The bill that would establish the park in Maryland was approved by the Senate Interior Committee on Tuesday.

The first 20 miles of the original 185-mile canal out of Washington is a national capital park, administered by the National Capital Park Agency.

"Long Overdue"

The bill by Senator Beall would establish the remaining 165 miles of canal to Cumberland as a national historical park to be administered by the National Park Service. Approximately 4,800 acres is included in the area.

Senator Beall said "The establishment of the C&O Canal National Historical Park is long overdue. Its benefits will accrue to millions of people within a radius of 150 miles. It is gratifying to me that this scenic and historical area will now become a lasting recreational facility for the American people."

Local Missionary Tells Of Rescue From Landslides

"The Marines did it again!"

These were the words of Brother Francis Wempe of Cumberland, in a letter to his sister here relating his experiences when he was trapped recently by landslides in a remote section in the mountains of central Formosa.

Mrs. Helen Mackert, 50 Wempe Drive, sister of Brother Francis, has received the letter written by her Maryknoll missionary brother shortly after his rescue by a U.S. Marine Corps helicopter.

Brother Francis, Sister-Doctor Antonia Maria Guerrieri, a Formosan nurse and their ambulance driver were marooned four days on a 6,000-foot mountainside near the village of Kong Sang.

On Thursday, June 9, Brother Francis and the other members of the medical team started out on one of their medical trips to a tiny village called Bracelet Mountain which is 6,500 feet above sea level where they would administer to the medical needs of the mountain people.

The local Maryknoll missionary gave this account of his experience in a letter to his sister:

"When we arrived at the village at 7:30 p.m. it was pouring rain. We had mass at 8:30 p.m. followed by benediction, the first benediction ever given in this area.

"Friday morning we did medical work until noon, had a meal and decided to try and get back home. Rev. Father William Statham and Sister Antonia Marie discussed whether to attempt a northern route. They decided it was worth a try.

"We had four mountain men with us and every couple of miles we were throwing rocks and shoveling mud off the road, making a desperate effort to get back. After 18 miles another landslide, and we decided to start back for Bracelet Mountain. About 9 p.m. we ran out of gas and finally were able to borrow some from a repair gang about two miles away. But then the car wouldn't start and the nine of us were forced to spend the night in the car.

"When daylight came the driver cleaned out the blocked gas line and again we were off for Bracelet Mountain with our hopes high. However, we encountered another landslide and were forced to turn back and went to a police barracks.

"No one was there but the cook and he fixed us a meal Saturday morning at 9 o'clock, our first meal since Friday noon. After the meal Father Statham started walking for Taichung (90 miles) while the four of us lived at the barracks until Tuesday morning about 10 o'clock when we heard the road was cleared.

"We went back to Bracelet Mountain and began medical work shortly after noon. About 3:30 p.m. a helicopter flew overhead and continued to the barracks. When the pilot didn't see our car he flew back to Bracelet Mountain and finally spotted our

City Considers Workable Plan For Housing

Official To Confer Here July 6 And 7

The City of Cumberland will get the assistance of the Philadelphia regional office of the Housing and Home Finance Agency in the development of a workable program for the prevention and elimination of slum and blighted areas in Cumberland.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech yesterday received a letter from Chester H. Knowles, regional administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, in Philadelphia concerning the workable program for Cumberland.

The letter explained that a Mr. Lundberg of the agency would be in Cumberland on July 6 and 7 to assist in the preparation of a workable program for Cumberland.

With the letter were application forms for Federal assistance in this program and a copy of a pamphlet entitled "How Localities Can Develop a Workable Program For Community Improvement."

First step in this program is the preparation of a declaration of purpose which should outline what the locality hopes to accomplish, identifying specific problems to be solved and the major objectives to be attained.

City Hall spokesmen pointed out that steps toward elimination of slums have been undertaken through the development of three low-rent housing projects by the Housing Authority of the City of Cumberland. Two of these have been in operation for some years and the third along Oldtown Road, between Thomas Street and Virginia Avenue, has been under construction since early January.

Three Hurt In Accident

A Paterson, N. J., couple was severely injured Wednesday evening when their car being driven diagonally across Route 220 was struck broadside by a southbound auto at the northern tip of "Turnpike City" near Bedford.

One of the victims, Filbert L. Rosenstein, 69, was pinned in the wreckage of the demolished vehicle for 20 minutes before he could be extricated and removed to Memorial Hospital of Bedford County for emergency treatment. His wife, Regina, 68, driver of the car, was also taken to the hospital where attaches described their conditions as "fair".

Rosenstein, whose credentials identified him as a judge or former judge, sustained a fractured right hip, fractured right leg and fractured ribs. His wife suffered a fractured skull, a cerebral concussion and multiple lacerations and contusions.

State Police of the Bedford County sub-station, who are investigating the accident, said that the southbound car was operated by Francis J. Berg, 42, of Windber. Berg sustained only body bruises but was admitted to the hospital for X-rays and observation.

The Rosenstein car, valued at $2,000, was almost a total loss, state police said. They estimated damages to Berg's car at $300.

Traffic along the highway was stopped after the accident until a one-lane flow was resumed.

Zoning Board Grants Permit For Bakery

Schmidt Firm Wins Approval

A bakery, a church and a couple last night received permission from the City Board of Zoning Appeals for building permits for certain uses which previously had been rejected by the city engineer's office.

There were no opponents present to oppose any of the three permits.

Most extensive of three and the one greatly discussed earlier this month by the Mayor and City Council was the application of the Schmidt Baking Company, Baltimore, to build a concrete block and brick veneer addition to its existing bakery on Frederick Street.

Kenton B. Farrell, manager of the Schmidt Bakery here, explained to the three-man zoning board that the addition will relieve traffic congestion at the bakery, will reduce noise on the premises and will provide for increased employment.

Will Decrease Crowding

The congestion will be decreased, Mr. Farrell told the board, because there will be more room inside for the trucks and a wider door will enable the tractor-tailers to get in without blocking the street. He added that the wrapping room, now situated on the second floor, will be moved to the first floor. The vacated space will be used for an office and locker room. The new location of the wrapper room will be where the boiler room and refrigeration rooms will serve as a "buffer" between it and the nearest houses.

More people will be put to work at the local bakery because the expanded facilities will enable Schmidt to ship more bread products from here to Baltimore, Martinsburg, W. Va., and Johnstown, Pa., than is now the case.

The Church of Christ, 211-213 South Lee Street, was granted permission to build an addition for class rooms on the rear of the two lots. The concrete block addition with asphalt shingle roof will be 46 by 28 feet in size. Paul M. Catherman appeared in behalf of this application.

Other Action

First to be granted was an application from Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Barnes, 512 Fort Avenue, for permission to use part of the basement of their home there as a beauty parlor.

The board also announced that it had rejected an application from Robert E. Robinette, 47 National Highway, to use the first floor and basement of 106 South Allegany Street as a beer storage and the second floor as apartments. This application was tabled at the time it was first heard on May 5 but the negative decision was taken at the June 2 meeting.

Members of the zoning board are James C. Gardner, William B. Orndorff and James M. Roby.

Other officers of the local section are Wilmer C. Knepper, vice president; Raymond Bampton, secretary - treasurer; Warren Bantz, nominating chairman; Robert Wilson, national delegate; Raymond Bampton, alternate delegate, and Raymond Chaney, chairman of the committee on education.

$90,000 Topped In Collection Of County Taxes

More than half of the more than $90,000 collection yesterday in Allegany County and state real estate and personal property taxes came from outside Cumberland, according to County Tax Collector William B. Orndorff.

Mr. Orndorff, the county's first county-wide collector, said that $30,000 came from the assistant who visited Frostburg and about $16,000 from the visitor to Westernport. That left about $44,000 collected at the Court House from mailed and personally paid returns.

A deputy collector will visit the Frostburg Fire Hall for the fifth time this month between 9:30 a. m. and 3:30 p. m. today. Thursday, June 30, is the last day for a five per cent discount on county taxes.

The breaking and entering occurred sometime after 8 p.m. Wednesday, according to Van, who said the hinges on front of the stand were unscrewed and the building was entered. A number of admission tickets also were taken, said Van.

Robert Johnson, 644 North Centre Street, reported to police that someone took two spinner-type hub caps off his car while it was parked on the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant lot.

He had parked the car on the lot on Saturday afternoon and the following morning discovered the hub caps had been stolen. They are valued at $20. The complaint was received by Detective Kenneth M. Morrissey.

Senate Passes Beall's Bill For Park On Canal

Sponsor Expects Okay From House

U.S. Senator J. Glenn Beall said yesterday that he is in high hopes of getting his Chesapeake and Ohio Canal National Historical Park bill through the House of Representatives and enacted into law before the adjournment of the 86th Congress.

The Beall bill, S77, was passed by the Senate yesterday afternoon after Senator Beall took the floor and explained the provisions of the bill.

Senator Beall had offered a series of amendments to make the bill acceptable to the House of Representatives. Before passage of the bill, amendments were approved en bloc by the Senate.

No Delay Expected

The senator said that with proper cooperation in the House he hopes to get the bill through without delay.

He said it is his opinion that President Eisenhower will sign the measure, there being nothing in it which is contrary to expressed White House policy.

Senator Beall proposes to work closely with his former colleagues in the House to the end that the measure will get through the House.

The bill that would establish the park in Maryland was approved by the Senate Interior Committee on Tuesday.

"Long Overdue"

The bill by Senator Beall would establish the remaining 165 miles of canal to Cumberland as a national historical park to be administered by the National Park Service. Approximately 4,800 acres is included in the area.

Senator Beall said "The establishment of the C&O Canal National Historical Park is long overdue. Its benefits will accrue to millions of people within a radius of 150 miles. It is gratifying to me that this scenic and historical area will now become a lasting recreational facility for the American people."

School Board Bookkeeper Will Retire

Staff Honors Mrs. Lechliter

Mrs. Esther Steiner Lechliter, 407 Decatur Street, a onetime teacher and secretary to a superintendent of schools who has been bookkeeper for the Allegany County Board of Education the past 11 years, is retiring effective June 30.

Some 27 members of the staff of the Board of Education attended a dinner Wednesday night at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club at which Mrs. Lechliter was the guest of honor.

A native of Cumberland, Mrs. Lechliter attended the old Union Street School and Allegany High School, then located on Greene Street, before matriculating at Frostburg Normal School, from which she was graduated in 1913.

Local Missionary Tells Of Rescue From Landslides

"The Marines did it again!"

These were the words of Brother Francis Wempe of Cumberland, in a letter to his sister here relating his experiences when he was trapped recently by landslides in a remote section in the mountains of central Formosa.

Mrs. Helen Mackert, 50 Wempe Drive, sister of Brother Francis, has received the letter written by her Maryknoll missionary brother shortly after his rescue by a U.S. Marine Corps helicopter.

Brother Francis, Sister-Doctor Antonia Maria Guerrieri, a Formosan nurse and their ambulance driver were marooned four days on a 6,000-foot mountainside near the village of Kong Sang.

On Thursday, June 9, Brother Francis and the other members of the medical team started out on one of their medical trips to a tiny village called Bracelet Mountain which is 6,500 feet above sea level where they would administer to the medical needs of the mountain people.

The local Maryknoll missionary gave this account of his experience in a letter to his sister:

"When we arrived at the village at 7:30 p.m. it was pouring rain. We had mass at 8:30 p.m. followed by benediction, the first benediction ever given in this area.

"Friday morning we did medical work until noon, had a meal and decided to try and get back home. Rev. Father William Statham and Sister Antonia Marie discussed whether to attempt a northern route. They decided it was worth a try.

"We had four mountain men with us and every couple of miles we were throwing rocks and shoveling mud off the road, making a desperate effort to get back. After 18 miles another landslide, and we decided to start back for Bracelet Mountain. About 9 p.m. we ran out of gas and finally were able to borrow some from a repair gang about two miles away. But then the car wouldn't start and the nine of us were forced to spend the night in the car.

"When daylight came the driver cleaned out the blocked gas line and again we were off for Bracelet Mountain with our hopes high. However, we encountered another landslide and were forced to turn back and went to a police barracks.

"No one was there but the cook and he fixed us a meal Saturday morning at 9 o'clock, our first meal since Friday noon. After the meal Father Statham started walking for Taichung (90 miles) while the four of us lived at the barracks until Tuesday morning about 10 o'clock when we heard the road was cleared.

"We went back to Bracelet Mountain and began medical work shortly after noon. About 3:30 p.m. a helicopter flew overhead and continued to the barracks. When the pilot didn't see our car he flew back to Bracelet Mountain and finally spotted our

Official To Confer Here July 6 And 7

The City of Cumberland will get the assistance of the Philadelphia regional office of the Housing and Home Finance Agency in the development of a workable program for the prevention and elimination of slum and blighted areas in Cumberland.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech yesterday received a letter from Chester H. Knowles, regional administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, in Philadelphia concerning the workable program for Cumberland.

The letter explained that a Mr. Lundberg of the agency would be in Cumberland on July 6 and 7 to assist in the preparation of a workable program for Cumberland.

With the letter were application forms for Federal assistance in this program and a copy of a pamphlet entitled "How Localities Can Develop a Workable Program For Community Improvement."

First step in this program is the preparation of a declaration of purpose which should outline what the locality hopes to accomplish, identifying specific problems to be solved and the major objectives to be attained.

City Hall spokesmen pointed out that steps toward elimination of slums have been undertaken through the development of three low-rent housing projects by the Housing Authority of the City of Cumberland. Two of these have been in operation for some years and the third along Oldtown Road, between Thomas Street and Virginia Avenue, has been under construction since early January.

Zoning Board Grants Permit For Bakery

Schmidt Firm Wins Approval

A bakery, a church and a couple last night received permission from the City Board of Zoning Appeals for building permits for certain uses which previously had been rejected by the city engineer's office.

There were no opponents present to oppose any of the three permits.

Most extensive of three and the one greatly discussed earlier this month by the Mayor and City Council was the application of the Schmidt Baking Company, Baltimore, to build a concrete block and brick veneer addition to its existing bakery on Frederick Street.

Kenton B. Farrell, manager of the Schmidt Bakery here, explained to the three-man zoning board that the addition will relieve traffic congestion at the bakery, will reduce noise on the premises and will provide for increased employment.

Will Decrease Crowding

The congestion will be decreased, Mr. Farrell told the board, because there will be more room inside for the trucks and a wider door will enable the tractor-tailers to get in without blocking the street. He added that the wrapping room, now situated on the second floor, will be moved to the first floor. The vacated space will be used for an office and locker room. The new location of the wrapper room will be where the boiler room and refrigeration rooms will serve as a "buffer" between it and the nearest houses.

More people will be put to work at the local bakery because the expanded facilities will enable Schmidt to ship more bread products from here to Baltimore, Martinsburg, W. Va., and Johnstown, Pa., than is now the case.

The Church of Christ, 211-213 South Lee Street, was granted permission to build an addition for class rooms on the rear of the two lots. The concrete block addition with asphalt shingle roof will be 46 by 28 feet in size. Paul M. Catherman appeared in behalf of this application.

Other Action

First to be granted was an application from Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Barnes, 512 Fort Avenue, for permission to use part of the basement of their home there as a beauty parlor.

The board also announced that it had rejected an application from Robert E. Robinette, 42[illegible] National Highway, to use the first floor and basement of 106 South Allegany Street as a beer storage and the second floor as apartments. This application was tabled at the time it was first heard on May 5 but the negative decision was taken at the June 2 meeting.

Members of the zoning board are James C. Gardner, William B. Orndorff and James M. Roby.
